Neumann hearing delayed once more

By JULIE MURPHY Staff Reporter

It's estimated more than 230 residents showed up for the public hearing before the planning and zoning board of the Village of Antioch to hear the continuation of the Neumann Homes proposal on the 640-acre Anest property—only to be sent away without satisfaction. As with so many other meetings of late, the issue was tabled and the meeting concluded not long after it started.

While the crowd was made up of mostly those opposed to the Neumann Homes proposal, there was again a contingent of Neumann Homes pin-wearing "Fan Club" members.

The meeting began with the director of planning and zoning for the Village of Antioch, Bob Silhan, requesting the Oct. 12 meeting be cancelled due to lack of agenda.

Next, the board adjourned to go into executive session leaving many residents feeling neglected and worried that they wouldn't have an opportunity to say their peace.

Developer purchases all Tiffany Farms lots

By JULIE MURPHY Staff Reporter

According to sales associate Fred Knych of the Sheldon Good & Company auction firm, all of the remaining 21 home sites and one single family home sold at an auction conducted by the company. The property was part of the $30 million inventory of the bankrupt builder United Homes.

"One developer bought all of the lots," said Knych. "There are a few developers within Tiffany Farms, so there are some houses there that are being sold. Hopefully, this developer will get work started soon."

Knych said he was not at liberty to say what developer had bought the lots. "Our sales agreements are confidential," he said. "It's up to the individual purchaser to decide if he wants to say something."

He added that the single family home was sold to an individual.

The money raised from the auction will partially pay the creditors of United Homes' failed projects. The proceeds will be deposited with the bankruptcy court that will determine the distribution of the money.

The long-time builder filed for Chapter 11 bankruptcy in March. At the time, United Homes reportedly told homeowners and buyers that it was looking to reorganize the company, but now is moving toward liquidation.

County not in clear on mercury poisoning

BY BECKY DUBA Staff Reporter

An unlikely metal that used to fascinate high school science students has a much darker side, and that may have an impact on residents in Lake County.

North Shore made it clear to us that this inspection was not spurred by any incident of contamination. They decided to do it because it has been a high profile story'

> Ken Miller, Mundelein director of public works

"On Sept. 13, a tiny amount of mercury was found in a home within the city of Chicago. It is possible that this mercury is associated with a gas regulator that was at one time located at the house. Out of concern for our customers, Peoples Gas will inspect approximately 30,000 homes in Chicago, where gas regulators containing mercury were removed in the 1960s and 1970s," said Chairman and Chief Executive Officer for Peoples interpretation in the contract of the contract

Energy Dick Terry in a written statement.

This detection of a mercury leak has led the two large gas supplying companies of Lake County, Nicor Gas and Peoples Energy/North Shore Gas, to initiate inspections throughout the entire county of both homes and businesses that have the old-Village clerk for Round Lake Jeanne Kristan said her mother's home is one intended for inspection.

"The gas meter in her home used to be in the basement but they (Nicor gas employees) came in and moved it outside a while ago," Kristan said, adding that they now have to go back to make sure it was done correctly because of the mercury.

Sources said that in the four communities making up the Round Lake area, about 220 homes will be checked by Nicor. Residents of the homes in question will be notified via mail that the inspectors are coming. Some communities like Libertyville are taking a more hands-on approach and personally informing homeowners of the situation.

Teens broaden their experience at YES action camp

By JULIE MURPHY Staff Reporter

Three Antioch Community High School students broadened their worldview at the YES action camp held in Monticello, Minn.

This past summer, Ken Cotton, Natalie Trejos and Lauren Wennstrom attended the environmental camp. YES is an acronym standing for Youth for Environmental Sanity. Wennstrom explained that the environment is more than trees. She said, "The environment is really everything around you. A lot of what we talked about had to do with social justice."

The organization is based out of California and was founded by a relation to the Baskin-Robbins ice cream empire, Ocean Robbins.

Wennstrom said the 20 Midwestern kids at the camp came from different backgrounds and with different perspectives of their environment. "I come from an area of urban sprawl and that affects how I feel about things,"

Wennstrom. "One girl, LeeAna, was really pro PETA (People for the Ethical Treatment of Animals), and we had to really sit and talk to understand where we were each coming from." The group stayed in different bunkrooms of chalet-style cabin at the camp that was similar to a YMCA camp. The trio of Antioch teens had their trip paid for by the Antioch Rotary Club and the Sequoit Pride parents organization.

"I wanted to try some new things and open up to some new experiences," said

Wennstrom. "This program makes you better for yourself and for the community."

Guest speakers talked about topics as a basis for open discussion within the group. According to Wennstrom, one speaker presented ideas for improving race relations in school. A swim coach, discussed ways to develop winners through support, she recalled and another speaker told of the importance of not looking down on others whose views are different.

"We talked about things like not being so extreme that you shut others out, but that you listen to what they have to say and try to understand their point of view, said Wennstrom. "When we would have our discussion circles, everyone spoke with no interruptions and everyone was respected for their opinion. If you wanted to say something, you could 'hitchhike' onto what someone else was saying, but not until they were finished talking.

Wennstrom said one of the biggest benefits to participating in the camp was her increase in awareness. She said, "I thought I was open-minded before the camp, but now I am even more. We're here to see if we can change things to make them better. Even the way we were woken up was more positive. We would sing to each camp member. It was like waking up to a chorus of angels."

Administrator search begins for Dist. 34

By JULIE MURPHY Staff Reporter

During the regular board of education meeting for Antioch Community Consolidated School Dist. 34, decisions were made to begin the process of looking for a new principal and new superintendent.

The firm heading the search will be the Bickert Group, a consulting firm located in Highland Park.

Interim superintendent Don Gossett expects that a new superintendent will be appointed in February 2001. He said, "The finalists for the principal should be narrowed down by then, and the new superintendent will be able to be part of that selection process.'

Gossett said the consulting firm has its own network to use when searching for a new superintendent, but will also be meeting with the community to profile what type of person is wanted to fill the superintendent slot.

"There are web pages especially for superintendent organizations, said Gossett. "There is also a journal called 'Education Week' that the firm' will target."

Gossett said that both he and Darrel Dick, also an interim superintendent, are retire and will not be applying for the position. "We will be involved in the search," he added.

Silhan shares thoughts on Pulte proposal

By JULIE MURPHY Staff Reporter

Presenter for Pulte Home Corp. design engineer John Martin said, "We are looking to develop the property in a manner that protects the integrity of the property."

He indicated that one piece had already been deeded over to the Illinois Department of Natural Resources (IDNR) as a buffer to the Redwing Slough.

"We have provided 100 percent more open space than what would be required in R-1," said Martin. "We are providing 4.5 times the park area required."

He said that some of the variations being requested are to reduce the impact to the trees. "I was able to view this property in its winter state when there were no crops planted, so I could see the views of the property," he added.

"We've looked at this property and we can develop it without variations, but we feel that what we are asking for preserves the property better," said Martin.

Though the Pulte Home Corp proposal was tabled until an undetermined time in the future, planning and zoning board members were still interested to hear the comments of Bob Silhan who is the director of planning and zoning for the Village of Antioch.

Silhan said, "I'm not going to read all of my comments. They are written, and there are copies at the library. Members of the press have been given copies.'

He mentioned that the park commission had recommended acceptance of a 16.33 acres for park, plus two lots to be dedicated as "tot lots." Silhan felt the location of the two lots should be thoughtfully considered so as to not encroach on the wetland buffer.

Excluding these two lots will bring the number of homes down to 180 for a density equaling 2.0 dwelling units per acre. Silhan's written statement emphasized that there should be a maximum of 180 dwelling units as the parcel of land is 90.21 acres, which eliminates highway right of ways as part of the total development site area for density computation.

Village consulting engineer John Boldt expressed that he would rather allow the variance for long cul-desacs than to have an additional road come through the woods on the property. The Deercrest development, though now tabled, would have allowed for an emergency easement between the two developments for use by emergency vehicles if necessary.

In his written statement Silhan noted that final responses had not been received from various agencies including the Army Corps of Engineers, the IDNR and the Illinois Department of Transportation.

On more than one occasion, Silhan expressed concern over the lateness of reports coming to him for review. Silhan said, "I request that additional information come into the board 28 days prior to a meeting. We keep getting things in at the last minute."

hangers or jeans can be neatly folded in boxes. This makes the shopping better for our customers."

Items are rejected for wrinkles or for being packed in garbage bags. Consignors are limited to bringing 25 items per consignment day.

The shop always has fresh merchandise as items are accepted for consignment twice weekly, on Thursday and Saturday, and with few exceptions items are never left in the store longer than eight weeks. Customers have the option of taking their items back after the consignment period, or they can be donated to one of the Kellers' favorite charities.

Dick-officially Dr. Richard Keller-runs a free clinic in Waukegan called the Health Reach Clinic. He noticed that many of the families were in need of clothing, and began bringing in boxes of items that hadn't sold at the store.

"The people who come to the clinic are below the poverty level," said Liz. "My husband would bring clothing and leave the boxes in the waiting room. The families were happy to go through and pick out things they need. No one has ever taken more than what they need."

This week, the Kellers were notified that Dick had won an award from the Daily Points of Light Foundation, part of former President George Bush's Thousand Points of Light, for his efforts in helping others through his clinic.

When the Kellers bought the shop in 1998, it was located on Lake St. and was called Dolly's Second Showing. The number of consignors has grown since that time from 250 to over 1,500. "We have a great computer program," said Liz. "Otherwise we'd never be able to keep track of all of the consignors and their things."

Most clothes have scheduled mark-down dates that potential purchasers can read right off of the tags. Most denim items are marked $5 and are not marked down. Certain designer clothing, formal wear, jewelry and furs are exempt from donation and have set prices.

"Some of the bigger ticket items can be negotiated," said Liz. "It really depends on what the item is and who brought it in. Some consignors will tell me if they are willing to take a negotiated price. Others are really looking to get the price marked."

The shop does offer some new items as well as some handcrafted items. "I love sterling, so there's always some non-consignment jewelry in the store," said Liz. "We also have some new shoes. I've tried to make selections that aren't available at Gurnee Mills and would otherwise take shoppers as far away as Northbrook."

Liz added, "We have one woman who has almost a cult following for her hand-knit hats. People just love them and we love to be able to offer them." The consignment rate is even higher than 50/50 for some of the handmade items.

The store has special clothing sections for petite, plus sizes, designer clothing, six cases of jewelry, as well as separate sections for both new and used shoes.

"We have had great success with our designer bags," said Liz. "We've been able to offer some nice deals on Coach, Louis Vuitton and Dooney Burke."

Other goodies include vintage hats with curly feathers, the 70's female clothing equivalent to the leisure suit, and great costume jewelry both old and new.

With comfy chairs, drinks for sale—such as bottled water and Sobe-and the company of the store cat Gemi, the shop is inviting for those children and husbands who may be coerced into doing more shopping than desired.

Other store pets include two parakeets-Spock, and one yet to be named (though plans for a name contest are in the works).

"One of the most unusual things we have in the shop is a vaseline glass Buddha lamp," said Liz. "This type of glass is highly collectible. It's chartreuse in color, and black light really makes it glow."

The shop is located at the intersection of Main and Lake streets. There is neon around the windows, and often a dressed mannequin is seated out front.

NEUMANN

Resident Brent Gandolfi said, "Oh, that's nice. I wonder how long they (the board) are going to keep us out here waiting." Resident Marianne Guy later commented, "I've never seen that. I've never seen a board break into executive session in the middle of a meeting."

Stated as one factor contributing to the postponement of the meeting is the issue of sewer and water based on the complaint filed by the limited liability company Deercrest and Otto Sprenger.

The other contributing factor was a facsimile sent to planning and zoning chairwoman Barbara Johnson in the care of Silhan at 4:06 p.m. on the same day as the meeting from Neumann Homes division manager Chris Lebling requesting that the meeting be postponed.

The letter read, "Neumann Homes Inc. requests that the hearing scheduled for this evening on the proposed planned development be continued to the next appropriate date available. The reason we are asking for this courtesy is that Neumann Homes is exploring some alternatives that very recently have come to our attention. I am sorry for any inconvenience this may have caused the Plan Commission."

Though it makes some sense that executive session would be called over the complaint filed by Deercrest, it is unclear why that session was held before the close of the meeting given that Neumann Homes requested the meeting be postponed anyway.

It is also unclear why Ken Neumann and his entourage came with all of the display boards and other materials necessary for the meeting to take place when he must have known about the letter faxed to Johnson. Prior to the meeting, he sat at one end of the the high school commons and told his help to set the display stand and boards up by the podium as he would speak from there.

Johnson offered residents who had brought written complaints the option of picking up their complaints before leaving, or she would have copies made and distributed to the other board members.

that about 248,000 homes will be looked at by Nicor alone. These visual inspections will include checking equipment and piping from the outside of the residences while looking for mercury residue.

In a letter from Nicor to the Village of Round Lake Park, Nicor Chairman, President and CEO Thomas Fisher said by inspecting the equipment in this manner, they are finding about one-third of these homes never to have had an old-style mercury regulator inside.

The company is first looking at regulators moved within the last five years and then the last 10. Families having small children, a pregnant woman or other exceptional circumstances are also high priorities.

North Shore Gas is handling the problem in basically the same fashion.

Ken Miller, director of public works for Mundelein, said most of the village is serviced by North Shore Gas and that they will first do preliminary visual inspections. If they suspect a home is contaminated, they will do a more in depth inspection immediately. For homes that do not show visual signs of contamination, an in-depth inspection will still be completed.

"North Shore made it clear to us that this inspection was not spurred by any incident of contamination. They decided to do it because it has been a high profile story," Miller said.

About 700 Gurnee residents will be inspected by North Shore Gas, while in Lindenhurst an estimated 500 will be checked.

Sandy Haas, a staff member for the Village of Lindenhurst, attended a meeting held with North Shore Gas Representatives.

"No one (in the community) has voiced any concerns," Hass said. "Residents have already been notified that inspectors are coming. They are expecting very little impact on Lindenhurst."

Mercury is a threat because even after only a brief contact at high levels, it may cause immediate health effects including loss of appetite, fatigue, insomnia and changes in behavior or personality. Over a long period of time, mercury may adversely affect the brain, kidney, lungs and developing fetuses.

Police witnessed a blue Chevy pick-up truck being driven with its right side tires on the shoulder of the road, straddling the fog line. As the officer followed the vehicle, he saw it weave to the fog line and then to the center line several times.

Driver pleads guilty to homicide

By BRENDA BEITSCHER Staff Reporter

John Meroni, 36, of 1389 Regency Lane in Lake Villa pleaded guilty to reckless homicide in the March 26 collision in Kildeer that resulted in the death of Michael Linhart, 40, of Antioch

Lake County Circuit Court Judge Raymond McKoski sentenced Meroni to six years in prison. He was eligible for a sentence of up to 14 years in prison, but Assistant State's Attorney Daniel Shanes accepted the shorter term in a plea bargain.

Meroni was driving southeast in the northwest lane of Rte. 12 near Wooded Ridge when his car struck Linhart's. An Arlington Heights woman then drove into the two crashed vehicles. She suffered minor injuries.

After the crash, Meroni was taken to Good Shepherd Hospital in Barrington to be treated for a broken leg. Tests administered there showed a blood alcohol content of .26, more than three times the .08 legal limit of intoxication.

Meroni had completed a term of court supervision following a 1986 conviction for drunk driving.

Local girl's design chosen for national group's button

By JULIE MURPHY taff Reporter

Twelve-year-old Alison Kuhn won the national competition to create the 2000-2001 Lutheran Girl Pioneers (LGP) membership button. Alison, a Zion resident, is a member of Faith Lutheran Church in Antioch and just entered seventh grade at the church's school.

The synod is celebrating its 150th anniversary and has chosen "Forward in Christ" as its theme.

According to the congratulatory letter, the judges felt Alison's design of a cross with a sun behind it, with the words "forward in faith" around the top, was appropriate in light of the synod's anniversary theme.

"It was a big surprise to me," said Alison. "I thought I'd give it a try and drew my design."

The competition was open to girls between the ages of 10-18. Alison's design was selected from more than 200 entries.

"Lutheran Girl Pioneers is similar to the Girl Scouts, but with Christianity," explained Alison's mother Carol Kuhn. "It teaches the girls about art, music, camping, canoeing, health, sewing and crafts. Alison just finished a very challenging genealogy project."

Instead of earning badges, girls in the program earn charms for a bracelet.

"I like the crafts and getting to earn charms," said Alison. "I've got a sterling silver bracelet. It took me four years in a row of good inspections to earn it."

"Alison is our only daughter," said her mother. "After four boys, our family life revolved around the boys and their sports. She's been kind of on the backburner, so we are especially proud to see her earn this award and recognition.'

Kuhn

Alison has been involved with LGP since she was 6 years old. She loves animals and music, and enjoyed being a cheerleader last year.

Her mother said, "Lutheran Girl Pioneers is really a great group. They stress manners and etiquette, and even teach a babysitting course through Lake Forest Hospital, and take them to see plays in Chicago. They give the girls many things they need as they mature into adulthood.

Alison will be featured in the fall issue of "The Prairie Schooner News," the LGP newsletter, and will be presented a special sweatshirt for her efforts.

Megafest 2001 prep begins

By JULIE MURPHY Staff Reporter

Antioch Chamber of Commerce and Industry held a special meeting with its members who are either restaurants, or who serve food as part of their business to get plans underway for next year's Megafest.

Director of the Chamber Barbara Porch said, "We wanted to meet to discuss the parameters for next year's Megafest. We've discussed adding more food vendors and wanted to be the input."

Porch said she and other members on the committee were disappointed with the turnout. "Of 42 Chamber members who serve food, only one came. We were happy that one person showed up, but it's important for people to come early in the process, especially if they have strong opinions," said Porch.

According to the information recapped from this year's event, fest goers want to have more food choices available to them. "Everybody wants more food," said Porch. "It's difficult to get restaurants involved."

She added, "We had lots of ideas on how to improve for next year, and we really wanted to share the information with the restaurants."

The Chamber will continue to encourage more restaurant participation. "We'll keep putting information into the newsletter, and we may have a second meeting," she said.

Travelers to visit American castle

By JULIE MURPHY Staff Reporter

First National Bank-Employee Owned's (FNBEO) Eagle 50 Traveler's Club is heading to Elkhart, Ind. to tour Mansion Ruthmere, a three-story brick home featured on A&E's "America's Castles."

The trip is scheduled for Oct. 7 and will take about 12 hours from departure to return.

"These day trips are a huge success," said the bank's marketing officer Karen Kubin. "Everybody has a great time. Tour guides are provided as well as a deluxe motorcoach, a very relaxing way to travel."

The Ruthmere exhibits carved mahogany woodwork and paneling, silk wall coverings and hand-painted ceilings.

From there, the trip will take participants to the Country Inn Bed and Breakfast in Middlebury, Ind. for lunch. The setting is said to be rustic and the homemade cooking delicious. The soup and salad buffet includes two hot entrees, several salads, soup and a variety of desserts.

After lunch, the group will tour the S. Ray Miller Antique Auto Museum showcasing 40 antique cars that are national car show winners. In addition to cars, Miller's wife has a collection of vintage clothing and memorabilia to complement the automobiles and provide items of interest for women as well as men.

"This is the second year we've implemented the Eagle 50 Travelers," said Kubin. "We feel it provides a nice service to the community." Enrollment is open to everyone.

Being a 'sport' about sports

ell, by now we are all in the thick of the "seasonal sport" game and practice schedule. Who agrees that there ought to be a law stating we need to ease into this more gradually? It seems our kids weren't in school even three hours before we were confronted with four practice sessions, one home game and a three-day tournament in a town far enough away to require a bathroom break on the ride there and hotel reservations once we arrived.

After having the summer off to lie around at our leisure, that first three-day sporting event left most of us standing by the gym doors with glazed looks upon our faces. We very quietly questioned who set up such a horrendous schedule so early in the season, for fear of being recruited to serve on the Athletic Event Scheduling Committee.

Beginning such a hectic schedule so soon into the school year gave none of us the chance to brush up on the "driving with our knee" technique. This skill ensures us the capability of having complete control of our 2-ton vehicle as it barrels down unfamiliar roads at a high rate of speed, all the while wolfing down a Big Mac and balancing fries on the dashboard. The real experts can even manage ketchup cup for dipping their fries—something us newcomers strive for.

We were also reminded how quickly a $50 bill disappears at the games as the siblings camp out in front of the ever popular concession stand from the minute you walk through the door, until the minute we pull them off the gym ceiling fans from their sugar high to go home. Candy bars, beef jerky, pizza, popcorn, Powerade and the always popular Mountain Dew abound aplenty just waiting for those whining little faces to snatch them up with the grubby little hand full of quarters burning a hole in their pockets.

Like the dinner in the car ride down wasn't enough nourishment for one day. Early into the sporting season, one of the more experienced moms introduced us newcomers to the disease that would affect us all sooner or later— bleacher butt.

Midway through the second game, I knew exactly what she was referring to. So our plea, to every PTO, PTA and family organization in all the schools across the county—would you mind having a bake sale to raise funds for padded seat covers for those very hard wooden bleachers that we will be forced to reside on for the better part of our children's school years?

Of course the dads in the crowd requested reclining bleachers equipped with a call button directly hooked up to the concession stand, but they decided that would take selling a whole lot of bakery items. And so the season continues, days of practice, nights of games and weekend tournaments.

Oh yes, when I had that bouncing baby 11 years ago I took one look at her little round chubby face and prayed for this moment—right along with her first boyfriend and getting her driver's license.

Oh and here comes the little darling now in her cute little uniform and matching socks and knee pads, handing me a note from the athletic committee. It says here that the volleyball season will be over in just six short weeks, and then—oh goody, goody—we go right into girls' basketball until the middle of March. I think I feel a major headache coming on, and is there a formula of Tylenol for bleacher butt?

And so goes another "Jingle from Pringle."

Readers with information for "Jingle from Pringle" should call Lynn Pringle at 395-6364.

New Parks program to be started for young teens

By JULIE MURPHY Staff Reporter

The Antioch Parks Dept. would like to offer a new program for young teens. The program is being designed for 12-15-year-olds to provide an alternative to going home to an empty house after school.

"There currently are no programs for kids that age," said parks and recreation department director Laurie Stahl. "This would give the kids something constructive to do."

Snacks would be provided, and there is ample room for listening to music, watching videos, working on projects and homework, or even just to hang out with peers at the new parks building.

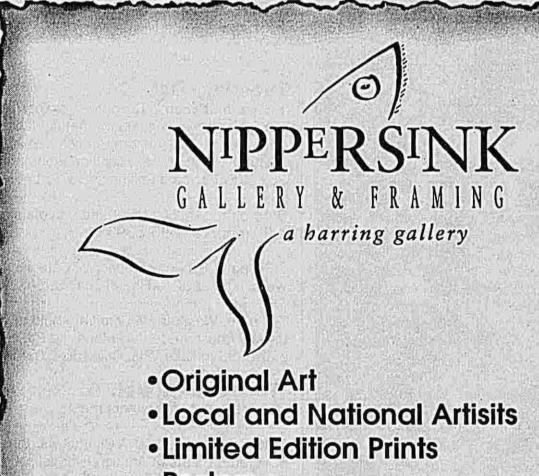

"We would also like to incorporate community involvement— such as helping with the Halloween Howl— as part of the program," Stahl said.

Other ideas being discussed include having "rap sessions" about topics important to teens with guest speakers like the mayor, police and fire chiefs, and school principals.

National Honor Society students are being encouraged to volunteer as program supervisors and peer counselors.

"We would like to start the program sometime in October," said Stahl. "Transportation is a bit of a problem as we (the parks department) don't have a way to get the kids to the program. Most of the schools are within walking distance, though. Kids would just have to get written permission from their parents to be able to walk from school over to the parks building."

The cost for the program is $5 per day or $20 for a five-day school week for Antioch residents. The hours will be from 3:30-6 p.m. For more information, call the parks office at 395-2160.

Shocking experience!

here's a negative and a positive to everything.

And Condell Medical Center is focusing on the positive. Thus, we turn your attention to the latest innovations in sports medicine around the Lake County area.

"It's ironic because electricity can either save us or it can kill us," said Larry Scire, Licensed Certified Athletic Trainer and Director of Sports Medicine at Condell.

"In one sense, we're trying to prevent shock. But on the other hand, using the same electrical energy can revitalize the heart and save a life."

Scire refers to the latest technology to hit area college's and high schools. They are known as Skyscan lightning detectors, handheld instruments that can be used for detecting lightning from up to 40 miles away during sporting events.

"All of our schools will have them in the next couple of months," noted Scire.

The schools undergoing the latest in sports medicine upgrades and contracted by Condell include Grant, Grayslake, Mundelein, Carmel and Vernon Hills High Schools. Trinity International University, College of Lake County and Lake Forest College.

"These will be great because the elevated static charges they set off will let you know if a possible lightning strike is forthcoming," said Scire. "They will come in very handy because the spring usually lends itself to unpredictable and inclement weather."

Other innovations in the works by Scire and Condell include the possible use of Automatic External Defibrillators (AED's), which will also be utilized at the college and high school venues.

ts.

"Because of the high level of anxiety and emotion at sporting events, there's always going to be the chances someone, whether an athlete, a referee or spectator could be having a heart attack and we want to be there to stabilize them as much as possible," said Scire.

"When a person sustains a heart attack, CPR is always good but for every minute that passes, odds are decreased by 10 percent that the patient will survive. We hope to have these at all of our schools by next year."

The AED's, which run approximately $3,000 apiece, are electrical devices that analyze the heart's rhythm that are hooked up to panels.

"They are terrific because they basically tell you what to do and do a lot of the work for you," said Scire. "Through audible commands, they let you know if, for example, the patient is in shock. Their main purpose is to stop the increased heart rate and get it back to normal."

Athletic trainers are always going to be the first to respond to a medical situation and according to Scire, odds are greatly improved by having the aforementioned technology present at sporting contests because in most cases, by the time paramedics arrive on the scene could be too late.

"We certainly don't want any fatalities at any event," he said. "We just want to improve the odds for survival. We're going to save a life somewhere down the line because prevention is 90 percent of the battle."

It's like old times for J.R. and the rifleman

Lackey, Richardson showing they belong in Platteville

By JOHN PHELPS Sports Editor

Call it the proverbial cycle.

And it's only natural that you work your way up and through it.

That familiar scene of Don Lackey launching a bullet to the streaking Jim Richardson for three years while at Antioch High School is still very much intact.

That's because the two former Sequoit standout football players are working their way into the offense while in their freshman year playing for the University of Wisconsin-Platteville.

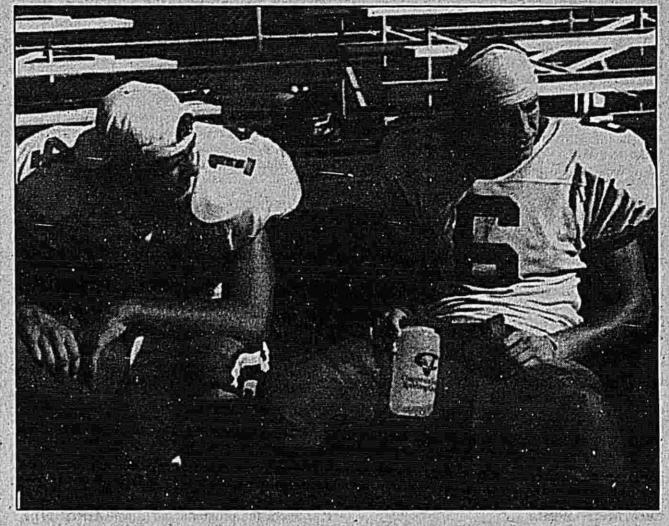

Lackey and Richardson, who started for three years on varsity for the Sequoits, were both all-conference and all-area honorees as ACHS finished 6-3 to earn a trip to the 5A playoffs last season.

J.R. has already figured prominently into the Platteville offense, which usually carries four receivers in its offensive set.

"I really like the fact that they pass a lot," said Richardson, who through two games has caught six passes for 71 yards.

Meanwhile, the rifleman is also quickly earning his stripes. Last week, Lackey was third string and against Augustana College Sept. 16, jumped to second string. He came in at the start of the fourth quarter and while only completing only 1-of-10 passes for 5 yards, is starting to feel very comfortable and confident about his abilities.

"I was a little nervous out there against a powerhouse team like Augustana," said Lackey after the Pioneers fell 32-3. "I did get hit pretty good on one play and that seemed to help relax me. But I really like this offense. All of our receivers are good and can catch."

"He was throwing bullets out there," responded Richardson, who was the intended target of three Lackey passes. "But it's great being out there with him. We're obviously very familiar with each other and know where the other is on the field at all times."

Lackey also showed poise and scrambling ability, breaking away for a 9-yard gain on one occasion.

"Everything's much quicker out here," he said. "There's more intensity and seriousness and everything's more in-depth."

Both Lackey and Richardson got off to rough starts the first two weeks during two-aday practices in mid-August.

J.R. contracted strep throat while at the same time Lackey was hospitalized with food poisoning. Then, to compound matters, Lackey was then stricken with strep throat.

"I'm glad those first two weeks are over," both said. "It was pretty rough. But we're both almost 100 percent now and just trying to show our coaches we can play."

Something says you already have!

Despite injuries, Sequoit spikers holding their own

missed 10 games.

A sign of a good team is how it handles adversity.

Case in point with the Antioch varsity girls volleyball team.

"We can't be that disappointed considering the circumstances," said head coach Gwen Varney.

What Varney is referring to is the rash of injuries that have stricken her Sequoits over the past month.

"We've had three starters out at one time or another," added Varney. "But they should all be back this week. It'll be the first time in over two weeks we've had a full team."

Missing in action during that span included junior front row player Erica Brown, who missed two weeks (10 matches) due to a sprained ankle.

"She still has a little pain but has been playing since last Friday (Sept. 22)," noted Varney. Senior Jamie Knuth, the team's best all-around player, had back spasms and also

Also sidelined was setter Meghan Flood, who is now back in the lineup after a brief absence due to a bone bruise.

But amidst the wounded, the Sequoits have held their own. Currently, ACHS is 10-12 overall and 1-2 in the North Suburban Lake Division.

The setting duties should be solid once again, with Flood and the steady Emily Niles, who has stepped up her game in Flood's absence.

"Emily has picked up a lot of the setting," said Varney. "She's pretty quick and has been running the offense."

Other players that have stepped up during

Other players that have stepped up during the hard times included the likes of Katianne Pechauer.

"She's a nice all-around player and has been doing a great job," said Varney.

According to Varney, senior Carrie Spiegel has also demonstrated good leadership, played good defense and has helped hold the Sequoits together.

Spiegel recorded six points with one ace in Antioch's 15-6, 15-11 victory over Richmond-Burton Sept. 25.

Leading hitter in that match included

Knuth with five kills and Brown with four. Pechauer was the leading scorer on 12-for-12 serving with two aces and nine points.

"The first game we played well," said Varney. "We kind of let them back into it in the second game but finally wound up putting it away."

Overall, Varney said the team has been playing really good defense and one of the strengths has definitely been serving. As a team, the Sequoits are serving at around a 90 percent clip.

"But one of our disadvantages is is that we're not very tall, so blocking has been difficult" said Varney. "And we don't have that go-to person who can get the kills on a constant basis. So we've had to play a lot of girls in different positions. I think we're improvising well all things considering."

And with the full lineup again intact, Antioch will get a chance to prove all of the aforementioned against Stevenson Sept. 28 in Lincolnshire. Game time is set for 6 p.m. Next week, Antioch travels to North Chicago Wednesday before entertaining Waukegan for homecoming Oct. 6 at 6 p.m.

Sequoit football wins OT thriller over Scouts; mighty Cats next

By JOHN PHELPS Sports Editor

Libertyville and Antioch's varsity football teams must be on the same page. Penalties and turnovers have been plentiful for each squad to this point in the season. But nonetheless, the Cats and Sequoits keep posting victo-

And guess what-they meet up Sept. 30 at 1 p.m. in Antioch.

"We survived," said head coach Del
Pechauer after his club earned a thrilling 21-20 overtime victory at Lake Forest Sept. 23. "We knew their wishbone was potent and I think defensively, we did a pretty good job of containing it."

With the contest knotted at 14-14 at the end of regulation, Antioch got the ball first in the extra session and wasted no time as wingback Eric White raced in from 10 yards out on the first play. Lake Forest then got four chances from the 10-yard line. They wound up punching it in from 1-yard away on the second play but that ever important extra-point sailed wide.

"The snap was kind of low and I think it threw their kickers timing off," said Pechauer.

Lake Forest (2-3, 0-1) jumped out to a 14-0 lead in the first quarter but back came the Sequoits. Ari Brown corralled a 35-yard pass from Brandon White for the visitors first score. The defense then stepped up when Justin Stigler picked off a Scout pass on the Lake Forest 20-yard line.

Fullback Dan Miodonski took care of the rest, rumbling in off tackle from 3-yards out on 4th and 3.

Brandon White finished with eight completion's for 102 yards and a score. Brother Eric helped lead a solid and balanced rushing attack, totaling 40 yards in four carries. Eric also caught four passes for 50 yards and the touchdown in overtime.

Incidentally, running back Mark Purnell will return to action this week against Libertyville. Purnell suffered a concussion last week, but according to Pechauer, practiced Tuesday

"He definitely helps solidify our running game," the coach said. "But we'll still be keeping an eye on him."

Antioch will definitely have to cut down on those turnovers if it expects to hang with conference-leading Libertyville.

Against Lake Forest, there were 10 turnovers in the game, seven committed by the Sequoits.

"We have to minimize those," said Pechauer. "I think we've had 11 in the last two games. You can't turn it over that many times and expect to beat a good team like Libertyville."

Pechauer said the defense will also have to step it up big-time in order to stop the potent Wildcat rushing attack.

"They have so many weapons," he said.
"They can strike fast."

Night of Destruction rescheduled; LGR host Oct. Classic

ilmot Speedway's Night of Destruction has been rescheduled for Saturday, Sept. 30, beginning at 6 p.m.

The began rains played bayes with the

The heavy rains played havoc with the track infield and pit area, forcing Premier Racing Productions officials to postpone the event origionally planned for Sept. 23.

Included in the evening will be small car, big car, and team demolition derby's; stock car soccer, rollover contests, paint ball shooting at a moving race car and other suprises. Grandstands open at 5 p.m. For the latest update, contact (847) 838-RACE or (262) 862-2446.

Thoughts and prayers go out to the Musgrave family on the unexpected death of Elmer Musgrave, age 72, of Gurnee. Elmer formerly raced in the 1950s through the 1970s at the old Waukegan Speedway and the former Kenosha County Fairgrounds Speedway (now Wilmot), among many others. Elmer's two sons followed his passion for racing with Tom currently a sprint car driver at Wilmot and on the Interstate Racing Association circuit, and Ted, now competing in NASCAR Winston Cup, each involved as drivers. Elmer passed away of a heart attack on Sept. 20.

Survivors include wife Arlene, four children, Linda Musgrave of Libertyville, Tom (Laurie) Musgrave of Kenosha, Ted (Debbi) Musgrave of North Carolina, Laura Musgrave of Gurnee, six grandchildren, and one sister. God's speed Elmer.

Meanwhile, the "Kids & Racers for Victory!" program coordinated through the Prevention Services/InTouch Office, a partnership of the College of Lake County, Lake County Health Department & Community Health Center and Northern Illinois Council on Alcoholism and Substance Abuse (NICASA), held a group outing with young people from Allendale Residential Facility in Lake Villa, coordinated by Big Brothers/Big Sisters of Lake County to the final night game at Milwaukee's County Stadium on Sept. 27.

Special thanks goes to The Milwaukee Brewers, Olson Transportation of Gurnee, Premier Racing Production's Wilmot Speedway and Lake Geneva Raceway for all of their assistance in putting together this very special outing. Race drivers, crew members others connected with motorsports accompanied 18 Allendale residents and staff members for the evening.

This is the first of several such events being planned by the newly formed program which has people from motorsports willing to present programs to youth groups, class rooms, schools, Scouts, etc., encouraging a positive lifestyle, being tobacco free, drug free, gang free, staying in school and doing the very best they can.

LET'S GO RACING

Michael H. Babicz

Nick Sheridan of Fox Lake, a mini-sprint driver who suffered what many would term a devastating disease, showed his car and visited with fans at Wilmot Speedway on Sept. 16. Watch future issues of Lakeland Media for a feature on Nick and his inspirational life.

Lake Geneva will host its annual October Classic Sept. 29-30 and Oct. 1. Racing will commence Friday and Saturday at 6 p.m. and Sunday at 11 a.m.

Lake Geneva Raceway concluded its Saturday Championship schedule Sept. 23. Landry Potter of Delevan won the super late model track title despite having his win streak snapped at three features. Eddie May of Crystal Lake took his first feature checkered of the year with Potter placing fourth.

Jeff Lorenz of Waukesha, who continuously shows a caring heart for children with donations to Children's Memorial Hospital, scored the super stock title despite a runner-up finish to season championship feature victor Jerry Cowan of Burlington.

Scott Poritz of Burlington captured his second sportsman championship despite encountering problems in the feature placing ninth with Jerry Freeman of Antioch winning it on Sept. 16.

James Olson of Woodstock completed an emotional season by winning the sport truck twin features and championship on Sept. 16. Earlier in the season, the elder Olson lost his 15-year-old son, Jimmy Jr., in a freakish sport truck racing accident at Lake Geneva. In prerace ceremonies, the younger Olson's truck number, 007, was retired by Kevin Dawson, Lake Geneva Raceway promoter.

In the super stocks, Andy Szymanski of East Troy won his first feature in his rookie year on Sept. 16.

The Interstate Racing Association(IRA)
Outlaw Sprint Cars will hold the traditional Frank Filskov Memorial Season Championship event, rescheduled on Oct. 7 at Sheboygan County Fair Park Speedway in Plymouth, Wis. Joe Roe of Pleasant Prarie, originally of Zion, appears headed to an unprecedented eighth championship. Kim Mock of Pleasant Prarie won the IRA feature Sept. 16 at Dodge County Fairgrounds Speedway in Beaver Dam.

The Midwest Sprint Car Association 360-sprints will have their championship event at Plymouth as well. The MSA Race of Winners has been added to the Gumout World of Outlaws event on Saturday, Sept. 30 at The Raceway at Powercom Park in Beaver Dam, Wis. The Gumout Series journeys north to Superior Speedway in northern Wisconsin for the first time ever on Friday, Sept. 29.

Speaking of Powercom Park, I wish to extend a personal thanks to all of the track officials, the Wisconsin Mini-Sprint Association (WIMSA) staff and all of the WIMSA competitors and crews, along with many others, who were so positive and encouraging as this writer took to the banked one-third mile clay oval in one of Randy Sippel's Rent-A-Ride cars. It was a totally different experience and one which I enjoyed. Finishing both my heat race and the feature, and putting the car back in the trailer the way it came out, plus having fun, made the night a success. Special thanks to Buddy Luebke for the driver's suit, Tim Cox for the helmet, gloves and neck brace, and of course, Randy and his staff for all of their help. It was a blast.

Back to the regular racing, Scott Nietzel of Beaver Dam won both the "A" and "B" mains for the Powercom 410 Sprints. Todd Hepfner of Pewaukee scored the Powercom Challenge Championship despite a valiant effort by Kurt Winker. There are many stories about "nice guys" in racing, but a true tip of the hat goes out to Jay Sachs of Waukegan. Jay had a front row starting spot in the "B" main, virtually ensuring him of a transfer into the "big show." Jay heard Kurt Winker was having problems with his engine and offered to swap motors. This took Jay out of his race and a chance to make the feature. The engine switch, virtually unheard of at this level of racing, was accomplished in about 30 minutes with the help of many different pit crew members. Jay's response to making the offer, "it was fun just being a part of the experience and seeing if we could do it." Jay, a two-time Illinois Driver of the Year, continues to show class which earned him that accolade. In the mini-sprints, Mike Kertscher scored the feature win while Scott Sippel wrapped up the season WIMSA title.

Rockford Speedway hosted its traditional

Short Track Championships Sept. 22-24, capped off by the ReMAX Challenge Series sanctioned 400 Sunday afternoon won by Steve Carlson who appears headed for the series crown. The series finale will be part of Octoberfest Oct. 5-8 at LaCrosse Fairgrounds Speedway in West Salem, Wis. Jim Duchow scored the win in the Midwest All Star Racing Series (MARS) late model event. Ironically, both Sunday winners were numbered 66. The MARS Series season finale is rescheduled for this Friday, Sept. 29 at Marshfield Super Speedway due to rain on Sept. 22.

Rockford hosts the Small Car Championships on Saturday, Sept. 30 with racing at 7 p.m.

A big welcome to Rockford Speedway and the Deery family for becoming the first Illinois motorsports facility to come on board the Kids and Racers for Victory program. Special thanks to Jim Ambrose, Rockford announcer, for agreeing to coordinate the group's efforts in the Rockford area.

Thanks to Dustin James, Wilmot's marketing director, for participating with the Wilmot Speedway Pace Truck representing "Kids & Racers for Victory!" in the Project Kid Care event at The Home Depot in Gurnee on Sept. 23. Despite questionable weather, an estimated 1,000 persons attended with 300 children finger printed during the four hour event.

Hopefully the weather will be better next time.

Two Republican leaders went on the attack as they ripped State Sen. Terry Link (D-Vernon Hills) for violating election laws and labeled State Rep. Susan Garrett (D-Lake Forest) a two-faced "demagogue."

FWA announces nowake rule on Fox

By STEVE PETERSON Staff Reporter

The Fox Waterway Agency (FWA) and Illinois Dept. of Natural Resources announced a no-wake boating rule for the Fox River from the Pistakee Lake to Algonquin Dam.

Current water levels are approximately 6 inches above normal summer pool due to heavy rainfall Sept. 22 and 23, with 2.64 inches of rainfall received during the 24-hour period at Stratton Lock and Dam in McHen-

The no-wake restriction may be lifted Sept. 28 or 29. "We had some serious storms

Peaker concerns aired

By TIM FROEHLIG Staff Reporter

Lake County politicians, along with over 20 residents, took turns testifying before the Illinois Pollution Control Board (IPCB), in an effort to have a moratorium put on peaker power plants until more information is gathered.

This was the fifth of seven planned meetings by the IPCB, which convened at the College of Lake County in Grayslake.

KAISER: Fears for Wadsworth residents.

The hearings are being held after Gov. George Ryan asked the board to give him a report on peaker plants, which are designed to operate during times when the demand for electricity is at its highest.

"Understand, we are taking this job that the governor has entrusted us with very seriously," said IPCB Chairman

Claire Manning.

FWA seeks to slow siltation impact with new ordinance

'The issue was brought to the board initially because of resident's worries regarding siltation from construction sites, which directly impacts the system and FWA users, whether they are boating, fishing or swimming."

FWA director Wayne Blake

Fox Waterway Agency (FWA) is considering a siltation control ordinance.

The FWA Board of Directors unanimously approved the new regulations for siltation.

"We needed some teeth to the ordinance to make sure people are not doing this," said James McKinley, FWA chairman.

"It fulfills a gap. Everyone has a piece of the pie, but not with jurisdiction over water," executive director Ingrid Engriquez said.

"The Stormwater Management Commission

(SMC) is mainly concerned with flooding, and not silt. A big gap exists between the IEPA, which is a very thinly-funded agency and the attorney general's office, which is also very thinly funded and staffed," said FWA attorney Robert Long.

Two audience members questioned the ordinance at a hearing before the FWA Board of Directors.

Tom Fernstrom of Cary asked for accountability of enforcement expenses in the budget

"We feel strongly that certain developments and construction projects and their siltation have an affect on the Fox River and the Chain O' Lakes. The ordinance aims to provide additional relief from siltation from large developments, single family residential and commercial. When people build a house or factory, they should keep the siltation on their site," said Linda Ryckman, FWA spokesman.

According to the ordinance, the agency, "spends the majority of its field operations budget annually in dredging silt from the lakes, channels and riverbed."

The ordinance specifies that "no person, company, corporation or other entity shall cause or allow silt to be deposited into any of the lakes, stream, rivers, wetlands, bogs, sloughs, marshes or other waters of the FWA from any lands occupied or used by him or her."

"This ordinance fills the gap that other agencies say is missing in their regulations by targeting those individuals or entities who are not properly taking precautions to prevent erosion from land-based projects and developments from running off into the waterway," said FWA director Wayne Blake. "The ordinance would provide the FWA with a tool to monitor and ticket violators, as well as recoup costs of any cleanup directly from the violators."

> The issue was brought to the board initially because of resident's worries regarding siltation from construction sites, which directly impacts the system and FWA users, whether they are boating, fishing or swimming.

Silt is defined any waterborne earthen material including sand, gravel, clay, dirt, dust or other similar material is deposited by natural or artificial means into the waterway;

Siltation means any process or processes whereby silt is deposited into the waterway.

Ryckman said the ordinance was separate from the debris ordinance.

The ordinance calls for a fine of not less than $100, nor more than $1,000 per day. If found in violation, the parties could be charged for siltation removal costs.

A copy of the proposed ordinance is available for viewing on the agency's web site at www.foxwaterway.stateil.us.

Herbicides ordinance

Fox Waterway Agency is considering another ordinance regarding herbicides. Ryckman said further meetings with Illinois Department of Natural Resources and at the board committee level will be held.

Nippersink Gallery and Framing has undergone many exciting changes. It was purchased last year by Julie and Brad Harring of Fox Lake. Their love of art brought them to this easy-to-find gallery in Richmond. After an extensive renovation last year, the new main gallery is a showplace for local and national artists. Some of those local artists include Robert Anderson, Judy Chinski, Betty Drapalik, Clara Ford, Nancy Fortunato and Anthony Soskich. In addition, they have a large selection of limited edition artists including Nancy Glazier, G. Harvey and Terry Redlin.

The custom framing design center has also undergone changes to reflect the diverse taste of our clients. New moulding companies have been added that reflect both extravagant and economical budgets. There is a beautiful selection of European and American mouldings. Some of the framing they do includes conservation framing, oil paintings, needlework, certificates, awards and even t-shirts! They also do oil restoration and art appraisals.

Nippersink Gallery and Framing is located at the corner of Route 12 and 173 on the southwest corner. The parking lot is small but the amount of artwork is large! Additional parking can be found at the church one block south, or at the bank across the street. Their hours are 10-5 Tuesday through Friday and 9-5 on Saturday. They will open again on Sundays after October 1st. Closed Mondays. Reach Julie and Brad at (815) 678-4682

FWA considers marketing effort for shoreline initiative

Fox Waterway Agency (FWA) is considering hiring out a firm for services to increase awareness about the natural shoreline initiative.

"It is time to think about the future and getting the message out to the public. We have such a fragmented and diverse audience, from federal and state regulators, to boaters, fishermen, hunters and people who come from Chicago or Wisconsin to use the Chain O' Lakes and Fox River for fun who do not know about the FWA," said Ingrid Enriquez, FWA executive director.

The specific proposal from a McHenry marketing firm, Dobbe Marketing and Public Relations, Inc.

FWA staff has decided on a slogan for the shoreline program, "Living on the Edge."

In addition, the firm would assist in internal communication services, and creating a video for boat and recreational shows.

The possibility of further grant application was mentioned.

"If we do the marketing study, it has to be comprehensive," said Bill McKinley, board chairman.

According to an FWA brochure, shoreland landscaping, is the practice of restoring the healthy transition between land and water. A plan usually will include a shoreland buffer zone - a native area of vegetation along the water's edge. It can extend both onto the land and into the water. "The goal of creating or restoring native vegetation in a buffer zone is to bring back the ecological habitats that are reduced or lost by traditional lawns," according to brochure.

FWA hears dredging request

Fox Waterway Agency (FWA) board members heard a request for more dredging in the Petite Lake area.

Robin Aerne requested the additional dredging of a channel, near Smith's Resort.

"We have been pretty patient. We want to know where the project is at," said Aerne. "It is a main navigable waterway. It is a very active side channel. The water does have some place else to go."

"We dredge navigable channels before we do side channels." said John Palmieri, FWA field coordinator.

Connie Novak of the FWA said there are maps that show the main navigable waters on the Chain O' Lakes.

It was suggested the FWA buy a nearby island. Engineering and permitting costs could slow that process down, residents were told.

The matter was referred to the dredging committee and the board's next work meeting.

Korpan's parade name to stay same

The long-standing Korpan's Christmas parade will continue to keep its name.

Trustee Cindy Irwin suggested the move, and the other board members agreed. Walter Korpan started the Thanksgiving weekend annual event and his wife Annie ran it for years. Korpan's Landing marina has since been sold.

"It was founded by Walter, and continued by Annie. They started it before I was born they should get the credit. If someone else wants to do another, that is fine," said Mayor James Trustee Dona Schearer questioned the move, saying it swould give the idea that Korpan's is the only parade.'

One of Santa's helpers will make an early visit to the Fox Lake village board meeting next

Lake County CASA selected for a new training program

The Lake County Court Appointed Special Advocate Association (CASA) has been selected for a new pilot education program to teach volunteers who work with abused children.

Susan Grant, executive director, and Terri Greenberg, director of advocate services, attended a nearly week-long training session in Minneapolis to learn the program. They were with representatives of six other CASA organizations from among the more than 800 CASAs located throughout the United States.

They said the new education program appears to be better focused for teaching adults, more interactive than previous programs. Formal teaching or lectures will continue but these will not be as long. The students, instead, will be asked to apply their new knowledge in actual practice sessions during class time.

"This program is totally new," said Grant "And I like it." Greenberg said there will be 15 classes of three hours each for volunteers.

CASA volunteers work with abused children assigned to them by the court system. The adults come from all walks of life and professions, from police to nurses and business executives. They make a full report to the judge to help them decide the future of abused youngsters.

The advocates make a difference in the life of the children, said Grant. CASA is the United Way non-profit organization of the year and was the only one to win the Liberty Bell Award from the Lake County.

Several hundred more volunteers are needed, said Grant. Interested people may contact CASA at 808-9154.

Schools invited to participate in attendance week

Project PASS (The Lake County Center for Dropout Prevention) has invited all Lake County elementary schools to participate in the 12th annual fall school attendance week.

During the week of Oct. 2-6, all participating schools will be promoting school attendance through special activities and projects which they have developed. Local businesses and parent groups may also be called upon to make the event a real community effort.

Schools may register and receive additional incentive ideas by contacting Andrea Kowitz at 223-3400, ext. 223.

"I recently placed a full-page Lakeland Newspaper ad to boost attendance at a stock investment seminar," said Bob Wickencamp, owner of Edward Jones-Lindenhurst and president of Lake Villa/Lindenhurst Chamber of Commerce. "It worked. We received several interested calls right away and many seminar attendees thanks to the ad in Lakeland."

Growth beliefs from two views

eave it to an academic from California to throw cold water on some long-held beliefs in Lake County and elsewhere in collar county suburbs groaning from growth and development.

Peter Gordon, with a background in urban planning, shot holes in popularly held ideas like: expansion of mass transit doesn't get people to get out of their cars, suburban sprawl undermines inner-city vitality, the U.S. is running out of land and high density does not reduce congestion.

Gordon fortunately spoke at a University of Illinois platform in Chicago. Had he voiced his ideas about suburban sprawl in Gurnee, Vernon Hills, Grayslake or Lake Zurich, he might have been hooted off the stage. The obiquitious academic also viewed planning efforts to contain suburban sprawl with skepticism.

A few days later, also in Chicago, an expert on immigration made more sense, even if speaking some obvious truths. Presenting a study by the Chicago Fund for Immigrants and Refugees, Rob Paral pointed out that immigrants are coming directly to the suburbs, thereby bypassing historic melting pot environments in the core city.

In the early 90s, Mexicans, Indians and Poles were the largest immigrant groups coming to the metro area. Latino groups far outdistanced European and non-European immigrants, who also settled in the suburbs in substantial numbers. The newcomers almost universally are drawn by job opportunities, especially in lower paying job categories.

With social services strained, sometimes to the breaking point, Paral advised that immigrants get more involved in community affairs. Rapid immersion in mainstreet life serves a dual purpose: immigrants can more readily pay their own way and they can fast-track assimilation in their new homeland.

No one should argue with these goals.

Ounce of prevention beats pound of cure

n the wake of the recent alleged murder of a parochial school janitor in Lake Villa, parents asked how this could have been prevented. Kevin Killian, who is charged with the murder, had a prior history involving domestic violence.

Would a deeper background check have prevented the tragedy? Probably not. Killian's prior offense was a misdemeanor. He earned a conditional discharge by taking an anger management course. The successful completion of the course allowed that part of his life to be hidden—as it should be.

Everyone deserves a second chance. Had the school board known of the prior offense, would they have experienced a conflict between their Christian charity and the desire to protect their children?

Should the anger management course have worked better? Some might argue that it did work. For five years, Killian had no other recorded incidents.

But anger management is a symptomatic approach. It deals with controlling the outward behavior, while ignoring the underlying cause. Surely a person who would attack his mother has some serious issues that need attention. This kind of approach, some say, takes too long and costs too much.

In fact, a year of psychotherapy, assuming two hours a week, would average about $10,000, while a year in the Lake County Jail would cost about $30,000. After a year in jail, the problem is still there.

Digging deeper still, what would it save us all in time, money and anguish, had the stage not been set in childhood?

How often do we set that stage for our own children, when we swear at traffic or push someone to get ahead of them in a crowd? How is a child formed by witnessing the mindless rage of a woman at a Lindenhurst girls' U-10 soccer match who physically attacked the 15-year-old referee because her daughter's team lost?

We long ago learned to recognize that it is easier, cheaper and kinder to deal with medical problems at the preventive level. It is time we applied the same concept to social pathologies

VIEWPOINT

Football kindles spirit in town

his is the homecoming season and take it from Vernon Hills Mayor Roger Byrne, there's nothing like a high school football game to promote community spirit.

"We finally got our high school.
We've got our own football team. It's wonderful—the games, the spirit, the community feeling," enthused Byrne. "This is great."

What Mayor Byrne is talking about is the identity that a local high school brings to a community and the feeling of togetherness that cheering for the hometown team creates. Winning isn't all that important. At least for now. And the new Vernon Hills High Cougars are getting their lumps as a brand new team, playing their first varsity season, although the young team has had a taste of victory.

Vernon Hills High hasn't had its first graduating class, but the Cougars will celebrate homecoming with a game at 7:30 p.m. Oct. 6, versus North Chicago. The game will be played at Libertyville High School while the Vernon Hills field is being completed.

Roasts are history

Howard Biese was Lake County's sweetcorn king until giving up a political corn roast that was a tradition after 17 consecutive years. "I got too old. Too much work," joked Biese, 77, who retired from Kiley Center, Waukegan, two years ago. Every August, Biese brought in a wagon load of freshly picked corn for his country place on the outskirts of Wauconda. The fresh corn and cold beer served became a must event for Republicans. "People still ask me about our corn roasts. but they're a thing of the past," Biese said resolutely.

Second life

St. Ignatius Church, an Episcopal parish in Antioch that dates back to 1862, is going to get new life as a church museum. Members of the Chain O'Lakes Historical Society have acquired the venerable building on Main St. as members go about building a new church. Historical Society President Bob Lindblad said the church will be restored to its original state. Plans are to bring in photos and other artifacts from other churches in Antioch and the north Lake County area to tell the history of pioneer religion. Lindblad chuckles at another possible role for the museum. "We've already had several inquiries about holding weddings. Yes, that's a possibility." Not unusual for a church, but exchanging wedding vows in a museum would be different.

Chief tormentor

Senator Mush, aka former U.S. Sen. Paul Simon, has weighed in on the side of scuttling Chief Illiniwek. Perhaps the general public isn't aware, but there's a strident and vocal minority that thinks the University of Illinois is perpetuating discrimination by continuing a tradition of more than 70 years of a student representing a chief of the Illini tribe at athletic contests and other occasions. The chief embodies the affection and respect countless alums, friends and supporters have for the U of I. Witnessing the reinactment of a ceremonial dance is a spine-tingling experience, not evidence of racially motivated discrimation as Chief Illini detractors insist. Illinois took its name from the Illini native Americans.

Pied Piper of boating

From an office in Gurnee, Jerry Martin through public relations did as much as anyone to get the American public acquainted with boating as a family endeavor. Martin got involved with boating when Lake County was as much of the outboard motor center of the world as anyplace with Johnson Outboard and OMC. That was 35 years ago. In a sense, Martin is starting all over again. This time he has a global work place. Through his company, Global Marine Network, the joys of boating are being told around the world. Martin has affiliations in places like Amsterdam, Sydney, Shanghai and Tokyo: "I'm even in touch with the Ole Evinrude of China," Martin joked, referring to a Far East entrepreneur who could expand boating like the legendary outboard engineer did in America. A lot of outboards will have to be built to meet the demand if Chinese go for boating like Americans.

Golf for children

Preliminary work is set to begin for an unusal golf center for youngsters at Hastings Lake YMCA, Lake Villa-Lindenhurst. Y Director Jim Schere said storm water engineering slowed the beginning, but now it looks like construction can proceed. Get ready for a new generation of Tiger Woods' in our midst.

Remembering kids

The uncanny ability of State Sen. Adeline Geo-Karis (R-Zion) to remember family members, especially children, of political acquaintances and constitutients was called to attention at the recent tribute in Gurnee sponsored by her Republican collegues in the Illinois Senate. Geo simply never forgets family details. Who's getting married. A new baby. An enlistment in the military. Referring to her own immigrant background and America's melting pot population, Senator Geo-Karis remarked, "We're all God's children." She said she was touched by the tribute. Those in attendance were touched by her response to the outpouring of adulation.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Smokescreens hide truth about Rte. 53 extension

That's all this I hear about the $1.8 billion Tollway-53 solving Lake County's traffic woes? Must be that $1.5 million public relations campaign (paid for with your tax dollars) by the same spin-doctors that tried to scam the public into believing smoking wasn't addictive consequences. Did they really think we were all gullible enough to think a super highway through the middle of Lake County (stopping in Grayslake) will solve the gridlock at Hwy. 83 and Rollins Rd., Hwys. 132 and 45, Hwys. 21 and 137, Hwy. 176 and Peterson Rd., Hwy. 60 and Peterson Rd., Hwys. 22 and 60, Hwy. 22 and Riverwoods Rd., etc., etc. Sell me some swampland in Mississippi.

By the tollway's own report, traffic congestion will be 55 percent worse within 10 years of Tollway-53 construction. By the tollway's own report the construction of Tollway-53 alone will actually increase traffic congestion by attracting 20,000-60,000 more residents than already projected to Lake County. Why is it these statistics don't appear in the tailor made resolutions that the PR firm, Hill and Knowlton, is providing to unsuspecting village boards? A $1.5 million spin-doctor campaign buys a lot of smoke and mirrors.

A state-of-the-art transportation analysis done in part by the University of Illinois-Chicago shows that carrying-out already planned improvements to Lake County's existing roads and commuter rail service would relieve 16 percent more traffic congestion than building Tollway-53. That's the type of smart-transportation that doesn't require a $1.5 million public relations industry campaign.

Gore's hype

Now that the Republican and Democratic conventions are over, "We the People" are going to be subjected to all sorts of rhetoric. In a few weeks we will have been subjected to the pontificating of those who want the status quo to continue. However, we need to read between the lines and do our own research to identify the "truth," no believe the National news media's spin. Who we vote for is important, we need to look beyond the press spin.

One thing I haven't heard from the media is how candidate Gore incolnshire has one of the longest running battles with the Illinois Dept. of Transportation—more than 20 years. And the fight isn't over yet.

Trustee Brent Blomberg admits the village's current opposition to IDOT plans for widening congested Rte. 22 is a "gamble, but worth taking."

Blomberg and fellow village trustees believe Lincolnshire is in the best bargaining position ever because the state now has funding in place for Rte. 22 and is anxious to get going. A total of $78.8 million has been earmarked for the Rte. 22 stretch running from Highland Park to Rte. 83 south of Mundelein. Is this OK Corral?

Mayor Barbara LaPlana has changed her stance from opposing any Rte. 22 plans to negotiating the most favorable option.

A number of Lincolnshire residents are opposed to widening Rte. 22 because construction will cut into their lawns.

Celebrity victory

After a visit from Second Lady Tipper Gore, State Rep. Lauren Beth Gash (D-Highland Park) claimed one up in the national celebrity race in her battle with Mark Steven Kirk for the 10th Congressional District seat. Earlier former Texas Gov. Ann Richards stumped for Gash. Republican Kirk benefited from a visit by U.S. Sen. John Mc-Cain (R-Ariz.). Mrs. Gore visited an elementary school where Gash had obtained a $100,000 state grant for after-school computer study.

Senior Law Day

Members of the judiciary will sponsor a repeat of the highly successful Senior Law Day, Thursday, Oct. 19. Already scheduled are a mock trial, a tour of criminal investigation facilities and the coroner's office, a presentation by a panel of judges and a visit to the county jail.

Freudian slip

Grayslake mayoral candidate Stacy J. Braverman took the "hard" approach when addressing downfalls of the current administration. During her announcement speech, she said, "Eight years ago, the question of an expanding landfill hovered over a mayoral (election)." Braverman inadvertently supplanted a word that rhymes with election. Everyone had a good laugh over the slip of the tongue.

How could Green Bay misspell Hutson?

have been thinking for several years about writing to the folks at the Green Bay Packers' Hall of Fame, which of course honors the great football players from that great town.

We visit Green Bay regularly to see relatives and friends, and in the motels we read literature about the area's attractions. For years, an article about the Hall of Fame has invited us to "discover how early Packers like Johnny (Blood) McNally and Don Huston set the standards for excellence in pro football."

Don Huston? Oops, the name is Don Hutson. Why hasn't anyone, over the years, caught and corrected this misspelling?

Can you imagine a history of Chicago sports praising the feats of Walter Patyon, Mike Dikta and Michael Jodran? No way!

Don Hutson was an All-American end at the University of Alabama in 1934, just an average-size guy with marvelous athletic and pass-catching abilities.

After 11 all-pro years with the Packers and being considered one of the greatest players of all time, Hutson became a popular automobile dealer in Racine. Along with a mutual friend I had lunch with him once at the Racine Country Club, where he played golf.

I told him that when I was a kid an older brother took me to see him play in Chicago's Soldier Field.

"We were seated so high in the stands," I said, holding a forefinger and a thumb a couple of inches apart, "that down on the field you looked about this big."

"That's about how big I felt down there," he said.

Speaking of football greats of yore, Johnny Lattner was in the news last week. As a halfback and defensive back, Lattner led Notre Dame to an undefeated season in 1953 and was awarded the Heisman Trophy, presented annually to the nation's outstanding college player.

Along with the trophy, the player receives a diamond ring. Lattner's ring, valued at $5,000, was stolen recently from a locker in an Oak Park health club while the 67-year-old Lattner was working out.

Last week the Heisman ring turned up in a pawn shop, whose owner alerted police. Two suspected thieves were arrested and Lattner got his ring back.

And now for my favorite Heisman Trophy story:

Halfback Glenn Davis of Army won the Heisman in 1946. He later played for the Los Angeles Rams and dated a young movie actress named Elizabeth Taylor, but didn't become the first of her several husbands.

Fullback Alan "The Horse" Ameche of Wisconsin won the Heisman in 1954, married his Kenosha High School sweetheart and was an all-pro ball-carrying star with the Baltimore Colts for six years.

Ameche, whose career I covered as a Kenosha sports writer, was quite a guy. After football he made big money in the restaurant business and spent a lot of it helping poor people.

Tragically, he was afflicted with heart problems and died in 1988 at the age of 56.

Sometime since then his widow, Yvonne, went to a Heisman Trophy winners' reunion and met Glenn Davis. They got married and now live in the only home in America that has two Heisman trophies.

As citizens we need to carefully look at what's being reported and what these candidates are actually saying. We need to ask what experience candidate Gore has. Fund-raising? Inventing the Internet? Saying that which is expedient? Using his influence to drain an Eastern state reservoir so he could have a photo-op while canoeing down a formerly too-shallow river showing how he supports

We, the people, need to ask ourselves how

Board rejects peaker plant

Libertyville—After almost a year of pulic hearings, Libertyville trustees voted unanimously to deny Indeck Ecergy Service's request to build a peaker power plant within village limits.

Prostitution statute upheld

Wadsworth—A Lake County Circuit Court Judge has ruled that the state's prostitution statute is legal, allowing prosecutors to proceed in a case against employees of a Wadsworth strip club.

Five employees of Baby Dolls were arrested for prostitution after they fondled clothed undercover officers during "lap dances." Attorneys for the dancers argued the statute was unconstitutional because it does not specify whether incidents of fondling must be skin-on-skin or through clothing to be considered prostitution.

But Lake County Circuit Court Associate Judge Valerie Ceckowski said the state's wording clearly defined fondling as any act with the purpose of creating sexual arousal in exchange for some sort of compensation.

The trial will proceed on Nov. 13.

Two jailed for threatening witness

Mundelein—Two men arrested for threatening a witness in a Mundelein shooting case were sentenced in Lake County Circuit Court.

Antioch— It's estimated more than 230 residents showed up for the public hearing before the planning and zoning board of the Village of Antioch to hear the continuation of the Neumann Homes proposal on the 640acre Anest property—only to be sent away without satisfaction. The issue was tabled and the meeting concluded not long after

The other contributing factor was a facsimile sent to planning and zoning chairwoman Barbara Johnson in the care of Silhan at 4:06 p.m. on the same day as the meeting from Neumann Homes division manager Chris Lebling requesting that the meeting be (cervone ( Law ) postponed.

Park Dist. keeps lease policy

Grayslake-The Grayslake Park Dist. decided to keep its affiliate policy for those using its athletic fields similar to the policy it has used in the past.

Commissioners debated whether they should charge groups such as the AYSO (American Youth Soccer Organization) and the Grayslake Colts (football team) on a per person basis, or charge then each as an individual group.

The board decided to keep its current policy of letting the park district staff work out an agreement with its affiliates on an individual basis. After a deal is arranged, it requires the board's approval prior to being formally accepted.

Remember: candidate Gore said he'd not speak negatively about his opponents. Well, apparently he forgot what he said about 12 hours after saying it. Recently he told a nationwide paper he believes the question is whether our nation is going to have its economy going well with his leadership or end up in a "dust bowl" economic situation with candidate Bush. Then Gore alluded that with his opponent in power the Nation will have the old political guard in position to take the nation downward.

Has candidate Gore forgotten that he and his running mate have been in government employment, federal and state, for about 30 years each? What's the old guard? Who's the old guard? What has candidate Gore really done other than politics? Other than his made up stint as a U.S. Army reporter in Vietnam. His opponent has been a successful businessman and almost two-term governor. So, who's the old guard? And please, don't cry out that candidate Gore's opponent has surrounded himself with too many advisors. That's a smart individual who does.

Candidate Gore seems to have forgotten that the nation has benefited from what is often called Reaganomics. The administration candidate Gore has been part of and supported has been riding the wave created by another administration. Oh yes, where's this middle-class tax cut we've heard from the present

CARNER, HOLT AND THE ROOKIES...

You can't begin a fantasy football column this week without first mentioning Charlie Garner.

The San Francisco running back has been a steady fantasy producer since arriving in the Bay from Philadelphia one year ago. But steady has now become stardom as Carner rushed for an NFL high 201 yards and a touchdown, during Sunday's victory over the Dallas Cowboys.

Besides being a very consistent rusher, Carner is a threat to have, usually 40-50 receiving yards on any given Sunday. San Francisco may not be the powerhouse that they once were, but Charlie Garner-along with wideout Terrell Owens--should be a starter on anybody's fantasy team.

Speaking of superstars in the making....Torry Holt, the St. Louis Rams' second year wide receiver, is coming alive. Despite being Ram quarterback Kurt Warner's third option behind Issac Bruce and even running back Marshall Faulk, Holt makes the most of his opportunities. This Sunday, Holt caught TWO 85-yard touchdown receptions. Since leading the Rams in receiving in last year's Super Bowl, the speedster has made a claim as the league's number one threat.

This year's rookie class has a number of future fantasy gems. Peter Warrick, despite a poor game Sunday, has shown a great deal of potential for the Cincinnati Bengals. But the best receiver for the class of 2000 may very well be Sly Morris, who two weeks ago produced three touchdowns for the Kansas City Chiefs Baltimore's Travis Taylor is also looking pretty good.

Rookie running backs include Baltimore's Jamal Lewis, Arizona's Thomas Jones and NY Giants Heisman Trophy winner Ron Dayne. None has had the impact that the Colt's Edgerrin James had last year, but any of the bunch is worth starting.

Recycle rechargeable batteries

With the fall season comes a list of homeimprovement projects waiting to be started or finished. As you head to your workbench to grab your cordless power drill, think for a moment about the rechargeable battery that keeps your drill powered up — and makes all those home projects possible.

Rechargeable Nickel-Cadmium (Ni-Cd) batteries found in cordless power tools are the key to completing your home-improvement projects. However, after a while they lose their punch and need to be replaced and recycled. says the Rechargeable Battery Recycling Corp.

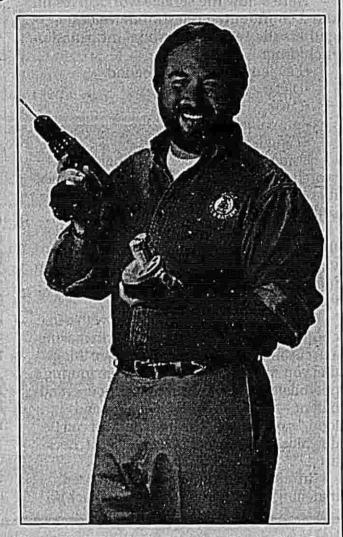

Unfortunately, most people don't know that Ni-Cd batteries can and should be recycled. Simply call (800) 8-BATTERY or go online at ww.rbrc.org to find the nearest retail store or recycling center that's participating in a battery-recycling program called "Charge Up to Recycle!" It's easy; all you have to do is drop off your used Ni-Cd battery while you shop for a replacement.

And don't forget that Ni-Cd batteries power more than cordless tools - they're the power source behind cordless telephones, camcorders, cellular phones, toys and a host of other wireless products. Just check the battery for the RBRC Battery Recycling Seal and you'll know whether that battery can be recycled.

The "Charge Up to Recycle!" program is sponsored by RBRC, a not-for-profit organization funded by the rechargeable power industry. For more information, call (678) 419-9990.

Single-stage snowthrowers: powerful and reliable

Toro Power Curve Single-Stage Snowthrowers are fully equipped to handle the worst that winter can provide. Toro has a machine to fit every situation, whether it's the CCR Powerlite 325, CCR 2450, or the CCR 3650 GTS snowthrower.

The CCR 2450 and CCR 3650 feature the Toro-built R-Tek engine have an exclusive guarantee-to-start (GTS). Toro promises their R-Tek engine will start with one or two pulls for 5 years or Toro will fix it for free. Nobody else in the industry offers the R-Tek GTS promise.

Toro's patented Power Curve rotor system, also standard, was engineered to move snow quickly and easily, while propelling the snowthrower forward. The Power Curve rotor system concentrates snow into a dense stream in the rotor housing, then projects the snow in a powerful burst from the machine. As always, Toro snowblowers are backed by a full, twoyear bumper-to-bumper guarantee.

Toro's CCR Powerlite 325 snowthrower is perfect for lighter jobs. Weighing only 38 pounds, it is compact and maneuverable. The CCR Powerlite is equipped with a Tecumseh 2cycle, 3.25 engine. It clears a 16-inch path through the snow and had the power to throw up to 1,000 pounds of snow per minute, up to 25 feet. Its folding handle and chute allow for easy storage and transportation.

For larger jobs, the CCR 2450 fits the bill. It

Its Power Curve technology allows the machine to clear up to 1,700 pounds of snow per minute right down to the pavement. Recoil electric starter options are available for the full line of Toro single-stage snowthrowers.

Toro's top of the line single0stage snowthrower is the CCR 3650. This model is capable of moving up to 1,800 pounds of snow per minute. With a throwing distance of 35 feet, it has the same range of many larger two-stage mowers. Its Power Curve rotor and high performance funnel scrapes a 20-inch swath through the new snow and is designed with operator comfort and safety in mind. The CCR 3650 is perfect for clearing average to large driveways and promises quick, reliable and easy performance. Toro's CCR 3650 is compact and powerful. Its exclusive R-Teck 2-cycle engine, coupled with the electric starting option, delivers a sure start even in the most frigid condi-

Finding the right living situation for ailing seniors not an easy decision

Did you know more than 40,000 Americans search for information on senior living facilities each day? Given that by 2015, 45 percent of the entire U.S. population will be seniors, it is no surprise that more and more adults have growing concerns about the future of their loved ones and themselves.

Finding long-term care for seniors can be an overwhelming and complex task for everyone involved. Family members often feel frustrated and wrought with guilt. Seniors often resist change for fear they are losing their independence.

Ted Tanase knows these feelings first hand. He and his family were given 72 hours to find the right type of senior living facility for his ailing sister. Trying to locate information about facilities and care was a daunting task, as it was scattered, incomplete or non-descript.

Tanase wasn't certain what type of facility his sister required or what level of care she would need. "People don't want to think about it until they're forced to," states Tanase.

However, thanks to Tanase, the tide may be changing. As a result of his own experience, Tanase founded TotalLivingChoices.com (www.TLChoices.com), a new free Internetbased service that helps seniors and their families research and identify the appropriate senior living facility no matter where they live or what types of services or amenities the senior requires.

Here's how the service works: uses fill out a confidential questionnaire that gathers the senior's personal information including:

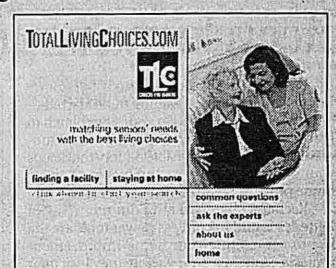

- ·Level of healthcare needed
- •Diet preferences
- •Costs
- Amenities
- · Language requirements

Using this information, TLChoices searches its database to generate a list of facilities that most closely match the senior's personal needs.

To provide additional insight to facilities that match a user's personal criteria, the service offers an objective five-star rating system measuring the overall quality, breadth of services and amenities.

TLChoices also provides users with a free checklist detailing what to look for in making a decision about a facility. "There are things that you should be looking for when touring a potential new home for your parent or grandparent -- staff interaction, activities and food," says Tanase. The free checklist can be downloaded at www.TLChoices.com/checklist.

In addition to providing personalized matching services, the Web site provides in-

While making these important decisions will never be easy, Tanase hopes TLChoices will reduce some of the confusion and fear that he and his family faced.

Lake Forest Hospital receives certification from state for emergency pediatric care

Children's health continues to be a focus as Lake Forest Hospital celebrates the recent success of its Emergency department's new certification in pediatric care.

This certification called EDAP, emergency department approved for pediatrics, is given by Emergency Medical Services for Children in conjunction with the Illinois Department of Public Health to ensure that superior emergency care is given to every child in the form of preventative, acute, and rehabilitative care.

"The community can have confidence that their children are receiving expert treatment. EDAP certification gives the emergency department outside validation that Lake Forest Hospital has the highest quality of pediatric care," said Susan Wessel, vice president of Patient Care Services.

Each hospital voluntarily applying for this certification must submit a pediatric plan and undergo a site inspection. Lake Forest Hospital had to meet strict criteria in many areas of pediatric care to qualify. Some of the criteria included:

•Having physicians and nurses who are specially trained in pediatric care

•Having essential pediatric equipment on hand.

•Developing protocols for ill or injured children.

Having policies and procedures for inter-facility transfers.

 Incorporating pediatrics into continuous quality improvement activities.

ER and cardiopulmonary services director Jody Jesse stated, "The ER physicians and staff are excited about participating in this national initiative for ensuring continuous improvements in emergent pediatric care."

Lake Forest Hospital is a fully licensed and accredited 214-bed community hospital offering a complete range of services that are staffed by 450 board-certified physicians, with offices conveniently located throughout Lake County. For information about the hospital, call 234-5600; for a physician referral, call 535-6171.

Judging the right serving size

As the media bombard us with the promise of a "new" diet, registered dietitians urge Americans to use the Food Guide Pyramid as your guide to healthful food choices. There are three easy steps to following the Food Guide Pyramid.

"The first step is to eat from the five food groups," said Toby Stern, a registered dietitian with the Lake County Health Department/Community Health Center and a spokesperson for the Illinois Dietetic Association. "You cannot live on one food group alone. You need to eat foods from all five food groups to get all the needed vitamins and nutrients."

The second step to eating healthy is to include a variety of foods. Try not to eat the same food/beverage all the time. Choose a variety of foods each day. The third step is to eat in moderation. This third step seems to be the step that Americans have trouble grasping. Knowing how much you eat is just as important as knowing what you are eating.

"The serving sizes that you eat can make a big difference in following through with a healthful eating plan," said Stern. "It takes practice in judging your serving sizes."

Focus is on family health in October

October can be the most delightful month of the year, and a great time for families to enjoy the great outdoors together.

It's also a good time to focus on the overall health of your family as you face the often stressful winter and holiday season. To emphasize the importance of healthy lifestyle habits, the American Academy of Family Physicians (AAFP) has declared October as Family Health Month.

Registered dietitian Laurie Meyer suggests a review of family habits pertaining to fitness, weight control and nutrition.

"Winter months, especially the holiday season from Thanksgiving to the New Year, is an especially difficult time to eat sensibly," Meyer says. "People tend to consume too much sugar, fat and sodium during this period." Meyer offers seven ways to combat the problem:

 Learn about any dietary restrictions you should follow by consulting your physician about any health problems you have.

 Eat foods you enjoy, but do so in moderation. Don't "pig out."

 Eat only when hungry and stop when you are full. Avoid snacking if you are not hungry.

 Be conscious of the sugar and fat content in the foods you eat. Read food labels.

 Drink eight glasses of water a day to avoid dehydration.
 Include peeded putrients

 Include needed nutrients, such as potassium, to reduce calcium loss in the body and to lower elevated blood pressure, but do so through food rather than using dietary supplements.

 Limit intake of sodium to reduce risks associated with hypertension, heart problems and stroke.

A National Research Council and U.S. Department of Agriculture report indicates the average American consumes 2300 to 6000 milligrams of sodium per day, when only 1100 to 3000 milligrams is considered safe and adequate.

One way to eliminate extra sodium, Meyer says, is to replace sodium chloride pellets used in water softeners with potassium chloride crystals, such as Nature's Own. "Sodium chloride pellets in water softeners can add the equivalent of 300 milligrams of sodium in water while adding the beneficial nutrient of potassium to your diet," Meyer says.

A study cited in the New England Journal of Medicine found that a 400 milligram increase in potassium intake was associated with a 40 percent reduction in the risk of stroke.

Meyer also suggests sending for a free copy of the American Heart Association's Low Salt Cookbook. To obtain a copy, send $2.00 to cover postage and handling to: AHA Low-Salt Cookbook Offer, P.O. Box 2062A, Rock Island, IL 61204.

We love grandma and grandpa, but...

Hi Dr. Singer,

We have 2 kids, aged 5 and 7. Our problem is that grandma and grandpa are living with us on a permanent basis and they consistently get in the way of our discipline decisions. We set the rules and the kids know that they can get my parents on their side and get out of it. It is infinitely frustrating because when the kids get out of control based on this interference, then my parents begin to comment on how inept they think I am in controlling my kids. I have always been very sensitive to their commentary. My husband is about ready to throw his hands up in the air! It's maddening. Do other people go through this? Can you suggest anything? Signed...Frazzled.

PARENT'S PLACE

Dr. Sherri Singer

Dear Frazzled,

You've got a tough situation, but notone that is uncommon! I hear this at least 2-3 times a week in my office and I usually have some very straightforward things to say. Grandparent commentary is pretty much a trait of the American family, however, when it gets to the point of derailing parental discipline decisions, it is destructive for everyone involved. Try not to be too angry though, Grandma and Grandpa just want to be involved and a part of the family decisions. They live with you and therefore, need to be taken into consideration. If you try to ignore, they will need to push harder. If you try to scold, they will become defensive and become the enemy. There are bet-

You did not mention what type of discipline you are using so it is difficult for me to comment on whether your parent's opinion might have some validity. If you are doing appropriate discipline with your kids, and your parent's commentary is off target, the first thing I would tell you is that you need to not take the commentary to heart. Try and get a little bit of mental distance from this so that you can feel more stable about it. What your parents think about how you raise your kids should not be your primary concern as long as you are being appropriate about your discipline.

The best way to handle this is to set up a structured behavior program in your household that everyone can use the same way *... The most important thing in helping kids to behave is consistency and logic. Language needs to be the same. Action needs to be the same. As I said before, Grandma and Grandpa are trying to be a part of the family, but they are doing it in a haphazard way. Why not give them specific tasks to do with regard to discipline. It might make them feel really important that you are asking them to be involved. A good program will have specific lines of action for each and every misbehavior. If you can help to train them in the ways of the behavior program and make them feel involved like it is important for them to be a back-up for you, it may completely change their viewpoint of the problem and help them to feel more on your side. The important thing is that everyone in the household should know the behavior program "backwards and forwards" so that it is automatic and there isn't any hesitation. When you and the grandparents start to squabble over who is right about what should be done, the kids are watching that and coming to the conclusion that all adults in this household are out of control and ineffective. The logical outgrowth of that is more bad behavior. Try and explain to the grandparents the philosophy behind your discipline at a time when things are calm and not out of control. If they are reasonable people, and you are being appropriate with your discipline, they will be able to understand. Since I don't know anything about your household, I will also comment on the "unreasonable" alternative. If they are unreasonable and are not listening to anything you have to say, it is time to get everyone in to a session with a therapist who can play referee. Reality says that you are the parents and the owners of this home. The grandparents are guests in your home and not the parents of these. kids. If you are doing abusive things to the kids, it is the grandparents duty to stop that from happening, however, if it is about you trying to set rules and trying to follow through in a non-abusive way, they should not be in the primary role or in the middle of it, and need to be told that. In fact, there may be many other Psychological dynamics from your own childhood playing out here that may need therapeutic intervention with a Psychologist. You might be getting very defensive right from the start based on old problems and that may color your responses. You need to decide whether that is the case or not. At any rate, if they are being completely unreasonable and not listening at all, and it is totally disruptive to everyone's life in an ongoing way, you might Rainbow Hospice will honor the Payton Family for their dedication to improving quality of living - not just for those waiting for organ transplantation, but also for those who are living with terminal illness. This special recognition will take place at Rainbow Hospice's 11th Annual Benefit to be held October 20.

Rainbow Hospice provides support, encouragement and special care for patients and their families at the end of life. Rainbow Hospice had the privilege of caring for Walter Payton and his family during the final days of his life. "We believe our annual benefit is the perfect venue to honor this wonderful family," said Patricia Ahern, president, Rainbow Hospice. "Connie Payton is an inspiration to us in hospice care because of her strength, poise and deliberate desire to improve the way families experience illness and loss."

This year's event, with the theme of "Evening of Enchantment" will be held on Friday evening, October 20 at the Hyatt Regency O'Hare, 9300 West Bryn Mawr Avenue, in Rosemont. Everyone in the community is invited to attend the event. The benefit begins with a reception and Silent Auction viewing at 6:30 p.m. The evening's program includes dinner, a raffle drawing and special recognition of honoree, Connie Payton. Tickets to attend the annual benefit are $75 each and must be purchased by October 16.

Coordinators of Rainbow's Annual Benefit estimate attendance of more than 500. "Our goal is to enlist the community's support for this event," says Dru Sullivan, benefit chairperson. "We are asking people to volunteer their talents as well as attend the event," she added. Sullivan, a Rainbow Hospice volunteer, is the wife of State Senator Dave Sullivan (28th District). You just need to weigh your options here and try to be realistic about what is best for everyone involved. I am glad to consult with you personally if you'd like to set up a time. Especially if you think about relocating the grandparents, I'd highly recommend that you do at least 3 or 4 sessions with a neutral person, a therapist, so that you can make your decision from conscious thought and not from "heat of " the moment" thinking.

Wake-up call for rural America

Drinking water quality is just a problem for big cities with too many factories and too many cars, right?

Not so, says James Elder, Former Director of the Environmental Protection Agency's (EPA) Office of Ground Water and Drinking Water. A recent study by EPA revealed atrazine, a common tap water contaminant in the Midwest, to be more dangerous than previously thought. EPA has recommended the commonly used herbicide be upgraded from a "possible" to a "likely" carcinogen.

"A common misconception is that rural America is safe from drinking water contamination. In fact, some of the most dangerous water contaminants, such as atrazine, are present in communities throughout the Midwest," says Elder. "These herbicides seep into the water supply after being applied primarily to corn fields to kill weeds."

Atrazine is the most widely used farm weed killer in the nation and a common tap water contaminant. Atrazine contaminates the tap water of more than 10 million people in the Midwest and causes more health standard violations in tap water than any other EPA-regulated chemical pollutant. (Source: Environmental Working Group)

"Water utilities are spending millions of dollars per year testing tap water for atrazine and other agricultural chemicals," says Elder. "Most existing drinking water treatment plants are not designed to remove atrazine before it reaches the tap. And while the EPA considers what action it will take to tighten the existing standard, consumers need to take personal action.'

Elder recommends using a home water filtration system as an effective way to reduce the level of atrazine in drinking water. Many of these units are surprisingly affordable and easy to use.

"The most important thing to look for when shopping for a water filter is to make sure that it has been certified by an independent agency, such as the National Sanitation Foundation (NSF), a nationally recognized not-for-profit agency that certifies water filters," says Elder. "For example, the PUR Ultimate faucet mount is NSFcertified to reduce atrazine."

Health Effects of Atrazine

The recent upgrade of atrazine by EPA from a "possible" carcinogen to a "likely" carcinogen comes after a five-year review of industry and government data summarized in EPA's new "hazard assessment," revealing atrazine to be of more serious concern than before. The report also says there are indications that atrazine could cause uterine, prostate and breast cancer in humans and may also disrupt reproductive development.

Children are especially at risk from exposure to atrazine. Based on animal studies, EPA has presented findings that atrazine has the potential to deliver potent harmful effects to the fetus, infant and children reaching puberty. (Source: Environmental Protection Agency)

Previously reported short-term health effects from exposure to atrazine include congestion of heart, lung and kidneys, low blood pressure, muscle spasms, weight loss and damage to the adrenal glands. Long-term effects from chronic exposure to atrazine include weight loss, cardiovascular damage, retinal and some muscle degeneration and cancer. (Source: Environmental Protection Agency)

To learn more about the atrazine levels in your local drinking water supply, visit www.purwater.com. In addition to finding direct links to the EPA consumer confidence reports -- water quality reports prepared by local municipal water suppliers -- the site provides consumers with useful information on common drinking water contaminants. If your community's water report is not available on the EPA Web site, call your local water supplier and request one be sent to you.

'Oh, my achin' back': Top 10 professions most at risk to low back pain

What do truck drivers and heavy equipment mechanics have in common with doctors, dentists and nurses?

If you answered that they all have to work with some pretty tough customers, you may be only partially right. At least one other thing they have in common is ... low back pain.

According to the American Journal of Public Health, truck driving tops the list of the ten jobs with the highest prevalence of low back pain due to an injury at work. Following close behind are 2.) construction equipment and heavy machinery operators; 3.) construction workers; 4.) janitorial and building maintenance workers; 5.) firefighters; 6.) police officers; 7.) heavy equipment mechanics; 8.) health care therapists; 9.) physicians, dentists and nurses; and 10.) people involved in agriculture, forestry and commercial fishing.

However, you don't have to be a truck driver to experience low back pain. It can affect anybody, at any age, in any profession, from those who spend most of their day working in an office setting to professional golfers, such as Jason Zuback, the 29-yearold Canadian who is the four-time World Long Drive Champion (see Golfweek, Oct. 30, 1999). In fact, low back pain is the most common work-related medical problem in the United States and the second most common reason for doctor visits among U.S. citizens, according to the National Center for Health Statistics. It affects more than 20 million Americans and is the leading cause of disability among people ages 19 - 45. It hits the bottom line fairly hard, too: low back is the No. 1 leading cause of missed work days, costing Americans $60 billion per year in treatments and American businesses about $15 billion annually. It's estimated that at least 80 percent of all Americans will experience some form of low back pain at some point in their lives.

Many Causes of Lower Back Pain

A healthy spine protects the spinal cord and supports the body while allowing it to move freely. The vertebrae and the discs between them are aligned in three natural curves that are normally kept in balance by the muscles surrounding the spine. But because of various factors, including injury, the natural aging process or premature degeneration, certain spinal problems can cause the discs or vertebrae to impinge upon the spinal cord and its nerve roots, producing symptoms such as pain, stiffness, tingling and numbness. Two common types of physiological problems leading to low back pain are muscle and joint problems. Muscle-related low back pain comes in either spasms or strains that, while easily treatable, can also be symptoms of joint problems such as disc degeneration, disc herniation or spinal stenosis.

"The typical backache lasts two to three days and 80 percent of lower back pain cases clear up in two weeks," notes Dr. John Sherman, M.D., a Minneapolis-based orthopaedic surgeon. "Most cases can easily be managed with an over-the-counter, non-prescription pain reliever or anti-inflammatory (e.g., Tylenol, Aleve, Motrin or Advil) and a short term decline in activities."

"The type of cases that concern me and other orthopaedic surgeons," Dr. Sherman adds, "are those that last longer than six weeks, are generating a great deal of pain and truly interrupt day-to-day function."

Carmel's defense dominates Notre Dame in 10-8 victory

By ROB BACKUS Staff Reporter

Despite Carmel's effective running attack all season long, the real story has been their defense, allowing just 11.5 points per game coming into their game against conference rival Notre Dame on September 22.

Well, that impressive scoring average continued to go down after a 10-8 win over the Dons in which Carmel (4-1, 2-1) allowed 117 yards of total offense including just 74 rushing yards on 34 carries.

"We relied on our [defense] to win the game," said head coach Andy Bitto.

The ground game was impressive yet again despite not being able to punch the ball in. Carmel's running attack was led by Ben Lawrence's 81 yards on nine carries. Matt Roe chipped in with 61 yards on 13 carries and Eric Luna and Adam Chorazy had 20 and 25 yards respectively to give the Corsairs 184 rushing yards on 43 carries.

However, Carmel's passing game was nonexistent once again, a trend that Andy Bitto knows the Corsairs have to reverse if Carmel hopes to continue their winning ways.

"We need to improve our passing game right now because teams are stacking the line of scrimmage," said Bitto.

Ironically, the defense provided all the scoring Carmel would need.

On the first play of the second quarter with the Corsairs up 3-0 on a Jon Mikrut field goal, Notre Dame fumbled the ball deep in their own territory which defensive back Bobby Magna picked up and scampered 17 yards for Carmel's only touchdown of the game.

Notre Dame did have a chance to come back. After a touchdown return of a Carmel fumble made it 10-6 in the fourth quarter, the Dons had a chance to win the game with under a minute to go.

Notre Dame had the ball in Carmel territory when Magna came up big yet again and picked off his first pass of the season to seal the victory for the Corsairs.

"You can throw out the records whenever we play [Notre Dame]," said Bitto. "We both

Up next for Carmel is St. Patrick, a team very similar to Notre Dame.

"They have a similar defense to Notre Dame and probably play a little better on offense," said Bitto.

"We're 4-1 after four road game," said Bitto. "It will finally be nice to play some home

The CLC men's and women's cross country team competed in a three-mile race with other teams in the Skyway conference on September 23 at the Carthage Invite in Kenosha, Wis.

The women's team finished the 5,000 meter course in first place against other Skyway conference teams. Freshman runner Katrina Weyland led the way with a time of 22:01, followed by: Stephanie Hess (25:28), Jenny Hughes (26:33) and Meghan Rafferty (34:26).

The men's team finished the 8,000 meter course in first place as well. The team was led by Beder Toscano's personal best time of 27:51, followed by: Mark Wagner (30:10), Eric Johnson (30:24), Brian Schoessow (30:33), Chuck Patel (31:09), Jeff Reiher (32:19) and Juscamed Patel (33:25).

Women's soccer

The Lancers fell to 9-3 on the season following a 4-0 loss to Johnson County on September 23. The loss gives CLC a modest twogame losing streak against two quality teams. The Lancers received good efforts from Anna Turk, Brooke Lorang and the best game to date from Danielle Weiss.

"We were beaten by a very good team," said head coach Dave Beck. "[Johnson County] will be a top-10 team by season's end. It's better that we lose two in a row now than at the end of the season."

Men's golf

The CLC's men's golf team competed in the 21-team, 36-hole Rock Valley College Classic on September 17-18. Brett Skelley shot a 155 (77-78) to lead the Lancers to a fifth place fin-

The Lancers also competed on September 20 in a five-team conference match at Glenview Park District which was shortened to nine holes due to inclement weather. Josh Navarro shot a personal best ninehole score of 39 to lead the Lancers to a second place finish with an overall score of 163, five strokes behind first place Moraine Valley.

CLC finished second to Moraine Valley yet again in shooting a 342 in a six-team meet hosted by CLC on September 25. The Lancers remain atop the Skyway Conference with 22 points and just two conference matches remaining. Up next for CLC is a make-up rain match against Morton on October 3.

On a related note, Larry Leon is the new head golf coach at CLC. Leon is best remembered for his basketball coaching at Libertyville High School. Leon has also coached high school golf and has worked at Ivanhoe Golf Course for the last six years. He also serves as co-chairman of the Keith Ryan Scholarship Award at CLC. The banquet is begin held at Midlane Country Club in Wadsworth on September 28.

Men's soccer

After opening the season at 0-1-2, the CLC men's soccer team is on a role having won four consecutive games. On September 19, the Lancers defeated Elgin 3-2 after scoring the golden goal just seven minutes into over time. Juvenal Castrejon led the Lancers with two goals while Leonel Marban also added a goal and Adam Schuster and Matt Delmler each had an assist.

The Lancers also defeated Skyway conference rival McHenry 2-1 on September 21 to up their conference record to 3-0 and their overall record to 4-1-2 on the season. Up next for CLC is a home game against Morton on September 28. 00

The sixth and seventh grade girl's team finished in third place, the highest ever finish for a Viking School team in a sectional track event. Their third place finish won a nice team plaque for the school, a wood based plaqued with a carved out emblem of the State of Illinois on it. The sectional results were

Two highlights of the state meet for Viking School was the fifth place finish in the seventh grade boys high jump by Quintin Scott. Scott jumped a height of 5 feet 4 inches and won a medal for his performance, the first athlete ever to place that high in a state event for Viking School. Another highlight was the 16th place finish by the seventh grade 4 by 100 meter relay team. The team set a school record with a time of 57.42 and consists entirely of the following sixth grade students: Shaunise Edwards, Alicia Ivy, Caitlyn Strezo, Dionna Siler. In the state meet sixth and seventh grade students compete at the same level. Since the relay will have an opportunity to return next year as seventh graders, their performance should be one to watch.

MEYERS ON MORTGAGES

by Gary S. Meyers

©2000 Meyers Communications Group, Inc.

Q. My wife and I were told twice over the telephone that we were locked in at a 7 percent mortgage rate. We never were asked to come into our mortgage broker's office to sign anything. On the day that we closed we discovered, at the table, that our interest rate was 7.25 percent. We were lied to and our lawyer said that the broker's actions were illegal. Is this true? We had no choice but to follow through at that point due to circumstances involving three parties. We closed on July 26 and our lawyer declined to help us pursue the matter further. You can imagine how upset we were. Please help.

A. Unfortunately, it doesn't sound as if the borrower ever had a lock in agreement. Stan Stewart, general counsel for the Illinois Office of Banks and Real Estate, said the borrower should have been given something in writing locking in the loan rate.

"If you don't have anything in writing, then you are not locked in," he said. "If the broker for some reason cannot lock in that rate, s/he is supposed to tell the borrower immediately."

'He recommends filing a complaint with the office's Director of Consumer Complaints, Thomas Schober. He can be reached at (312) 793-1455 or 310 S. Michigan Avenue, Suite 2130, Chicago, IL 60604.

"If the broker is doing something improper, we can put a stop to it," Stewart said.

Q. I am retired and on a fixed income. Recently I was notified by my lender of an increase in the interest rate on my adjustable rate mortgage from 8 percent to 9.625 percent. That works out to an added $64 per month. I can't afford this kind of payment. What can I do?

A. Your options depend on the terms of your mortgage. If your mortgage has a convertible option, then you can convert it to a fixed rate for a nominal fee, according to Tom Flanagan, sales manager at CNI National Mortgage in Chicago. Otherwise, you will have to refinance your loan to one with a fixed rate. The current long term interest rates are about 8.5 percent. Your lender should have explained at the outset that the interest rates on an adjustable rate loan were subject to an increase.

Q. I plan on paying off my mortgage soon. What papers should I receive after paying it off to prove that I'm done with my payments?

A. Your lender should give you three documents to signify that you are free of those monthly mortgage payments. Tom Drozdz, residential mortgage originator for Archer Bank in Chicago, says the lender will supply the original mortgage document marked canceled or paid in full, as well as the note. You may also get either a copy or the original mortgage release. If you are given the original right away, you will be directed to file it with the county recorder of deeds. Your lender may do that for you, in which case you will be notified that process is underway and that you will receive the release as soon as it is completed. Then, you can go out and Beware of mortgage companies who don't show an Annual Percentage Rate (APR). They are breaking federal law and may be trying to deceive you. APRs tell you the real cost of a mortgage. So, don't get caught with an 8.75% loan in a 7.5% market.

Clerk explains election law

'The statutory prohibition of electioneering while conducting voter registration is to protect citizens from political pressure affecting their jobs'

Willard Helander,

Lake County Clerk

Lake County Clerk Willard Helander announced that official voter registrars are prohibited from electioneering while conducting voter registration. "It has been brought to my attention that political campaigns in Lake County are combining promotion of candidates with voter registration," stated Helander. "This is strictly prohibited by the Illinois Election Code which governs voter registration." Illinois Election Code (10 ILCS 5/5-16) prohibits registrars from engaging in any electioneering or promoting any cause during the performance of his or her duties.

"As the Election Authority for Lake County, it is my responsibility to voters to make sure the voter registration process is secure and fair for all residents who intend to register," declared Helander. "The statutory prohibition of electioneering while conducting voter registration is to protect citizens from political pressure affecting their jobs, housing or governmental entitlements."

Helander emphasized, "Lake County's election process must not be compromised by individuals or organizations who attempt to violate state law. I urge the citizens of this County to hold parties responsible for their actions and let them know Lake County does not want a political machine controlling voter registration."

If a citizen encounters this type of illegal activity, they should inform the Lake County State's Attorney's office. The Illinois State Board of Elections web site www.elections.state.il.us provides additional information regarding the correct registration procedures for registrars. A lake County Deputy Registrar Manual can be viewed at the Lake County Clerk's office, 18 N. County St., Room 101, Waukegan, IL 60085. For further information contact the County Clerk's Voter Registration Department at 625-7402.

Tax payment information provided

Lake County Treasurer Robert Skidmore's office is making tax payment information readily available to county residents via an on-line service. The Real Estate Payment Information service allows taxpayers to view how much they have paid on their property tax payment through conducting a simple inquiry.

The service is now available on the Treasurer's Web page at www.co.lake.il.us/treasurer. Lake County residents can search either by their street address or Property Index Number (PIN), which is included on the tax bill.

Users may access information simply by going to the Treasurer's Web page and clicking on either "Inquire by Property Index Number (PIN)" or "Inquire by Property Address" and finally entering requested information in the appropriate fields.

According to Lake County Treasurer Robert Skidmore, "We've already had a number of people come into our office to pay their real estate taxes who didn't realize they still owed money until they looked on the web."

In order to protect the privacy of Lake County residents, users may only search by their PIN number or property address. As a result, addresses with similar street names and numbers may default the search to the user's PIN number.

While the county only receives $.08 of every $1 paid in taxes, the Lake County Treasurer serves as the County Collector and is also responsible for depositing, investing and disbursing funds on behalf of the county, schools, cities, townships, parks, forest preserves and fire departments. As an elected official the Treasurer works with 23 elected County Board members, elected officials and over 2,800 permanent employees to provide leadership and services to over 600,000 Lake County residents.

"It's illegal," Helander stated flatly. "Senator Link is passing laws that don't apply to him," the first term clerk declared heatedly.

Helander and Daniels spoke at the annual meeting of the Lake County Republican Federation at Country Squire in Grayslake. That afternoon Democrats conducted a voter registration rally at Jesus Name Apostolic Church with Congressman Jesse Jackson Jr. as featured speaker. Link, Garrett and State Rep. Lauren Beth Gash (D-Highland Park) also spoke.

Flyers promoting the rally were distributed at the Republican meeting stating that Jackson was in Waukegan to promote voter registration and promote voter turnout for the Nov. 7 presidential election. The flyer asked that attendees "bring one non-registered resident from our area so we can register them to vote at the event."

"Democrats are dragging down a 'greasy trail," Helander asserted.

Daniels said Garrett cast a decisive vote in committee that scuttled a bill mandating background checks for Illinois school bus drivers. Retiring Republican Congressman John Porter, who represents the 10th District that includes North Shore areas of Lake and Cook counties and extends westward to Arlington Heights, was presented the Robert Milton Award, given annually by the federation to honor meritorious contributions to the Republican party.

Members reelected officers headed by Barry MacLean, Mundelein industrialist, as president. The only change in the federation roster was the election of Fred Foreman of Gurnee, to replace L. Robert Pasquesi, who moved to California, as one of seven vice presidents. Foreman is a former state's attorney of Lake County who later served as U.S. district attorney for northern Illinois.

'New Munster, Wisconsin, at the start of the chain, has dropped 15 inches since Monday, It is an indication our water levels will begin to drop," said Linda Ryckman, FWA spokeswoman.

Ryckman said less boaters were affected due to mid-week closures as opposed to weekend use.

"Water levels can be high anytime of the year. We had flood events Sept. 18 - Oct. 7 in 1972; Dec. 6-15, 1982 and Sept. 25 - Oct. 15 in 1986, of the 32 events from 1948 to 1997," Ryckman said.

Water levels on the Chain O' Lakes are hovering just under the no-wake threshold at pre-

"We're fight there (at the no-wake threshold) but I think we're going to be able to squeak by if we don't get any more rain over the next few days," said Frank Novak, lock master at Stratton Lock and Dam.

All boaters using the Fox River between Pistakee Lake to the Algonquin Dam must operate at no wake speed. No-wake speed is speed at which a boat does not create a wake large enough to rock an adjacent boat at rest. No-wake speed is generally a speed of 3-5 mph.

Boaters are advised to be on the lookout for floating debris due to the high water levels.

This boating season started out wet-with portions of the waterway being under some type of restriction for 48 days out of a possible 58 days between May 19 and July 16.

For up-to-the-minute boating conditions, call the FWA offices at 587-8540 for current conditions. The web site is www.foxwaterway.stateil.us. To report floating debris or other customer concern, call the FWA office and press "O" to speak to the customer relations specialist.

Cambridge opens Carillon North recreation center

Carillon North residents are enjoying the variety of recreational and social activities in the new 12,500-square-foot community/recreation center recently completed by Cambridge Homes in this active adult lifestyle community in Grayslake for those at least 55 years young.

"The recreation center is a key component for Carillon North as it helps facilitate friendships as well as active lifestyles," said Richard J. Brown, chief executive officer of Cambridge Homes. "The residents in Carillon North moved there in part to enjoy the company of others who are of similar ages and to partake in various activities. The recreation center enables them to do both."

The new Carillon North recreation center features an indoor pool with a retractable roof and side walls that can be opened to an outdoor deck during warmer months, and adjoining his and hers locker rooms; fitness room with a variety of cardiovascular and weight training equipment; a separate aerobics room; an arts and crafts room with a kiln; a computer center; a library; billiards room; oversized kitchen; two club rooms for informal gatherings; a large meeting room facility and lobby. A tennis court is steps away from the recreation center.

Carillon North residents can participate in a number of organized fitness classes and programs being offered in the new recreation center according to Brown. "We have a full time activity director who organizes and coordinates the various activities. Before starting at Carillon North, our activity director spent time at our Carillon community in the south suburbs to become fully acquainted with the activities and programs that have been so popular there," he said.

As a total active lifestyle community, Carillon North also includes eight-foot wide asphalt walking and jogging paths with fitness stations, and will feature a nine-hole golf course. In addition to the open space afforded by the golf course, Carillon North features 26 acres of nature areas throughout. For added security, the community features a gated entry with manned guardhouse.

Carillon North is planned for a total of 360 homes with 12 different designs offered among a line of single-family homes and two series of townhomes. The Master Series includes four ranch-style villa townhomes being built in groups of three and four homes. Ranging in size from 1, 286 to 1,391 square feet, they offer 9-foot ceilings throughout, two bedrooms including the master suite with walk-in closet and private bath, and attached two-car garages, priced currently from $163,990 to $187,990. Two fully furnished model homes from the Master Series are open for public viewing.

All three ranch-style town home plans are shown as fully furnished model homes in the Getaway Series homes offer from 1,268 to 1,694 square feet with two bedrooms including master bedroom suites with walk-in closets and adjoining baths; one to two baths; large combination living and dining rooms; spacious kitchens with pantries and separate eating areas; laundry rooms; and two-car attached garages. Two of the Getaway homes include family rooms and a den or study. The Getaway Series homes are priced currently from $161,990 to $197,990.

The Resort Series provides five singlefamily plans ranging in size from 1,680 to 2,322 square feet and is priced from $226,490 to $249,990. All plans are single-level except for one two-story home with a first floor master suite. The homes have living and dining rooms, eat-in kitchens, master bedroom suites, two to three total bedrooms, two to 2 1/2 total baths and two-car attached garages. Three Resort Series plans are now open as fully furnished model homes.

Carillon North Recreation Center

Carillon North features a maintenance free environment in which landscaping, lawn, care and snow removal is provided. "Everything is now in full swing at Carillon North, which has developed into the beautiful community we had envisioned it to be as an intimate version of our award-winning Carillon community in the Romeoville/Plainfield area," Brown said. "In addition to the various amenities, Carillon North is becoming an established neighborhood setting with approximately 50 residents now living there and a number of others scheduled to move in over the next couple months."

Chance of a Lifetime — help a dream come true

by CHRIS LARKIN

Most people would be happy to see their own dreams come true. But a unique raffle offering a $285,000 home as the grand prize will also allow people the opportunity to help a Waukegan family realize their dream as well — to own their own home.

The home, in the Cedar Crossing development in Lake Villa, features a formal living room, dining room, vaulted family room with fireplace, custom designed kitchen with maple cabinets, hardwood floors and a spacious upstairs master suite with a deluxe master bath.

The development consists of 310 homes nestled in 60 acres that include wetlands, ponds and mature woodlands and is bounded by a forest preserve. Buschman Homes, a company that has been involved in a number of fundraising events for Habitat for Humanity over the years, built the home.

According to Mark Buschman, vice president of development and construction for Buschman Homes, the idea for a "Super Raffle" seemed to be an effective way of bringing attention to the difficulties that many Lake County families have in finding an affordable house.

"Historically, Lake County is, on average, 20 to 30 percent higher in housing costs" than other counties in the Chicago area said Buschman. Many families, even with two incomes, find themselves effectively shut out of many communities because of rising housing costs.

Interestingly, many builders are faced with the same problems that trouble not-for-profit housing organizations, according to Buschman. "Increasing regulation makes building a home, providing basic housing, more and more expensive."

To help spread the mission of Habitat for Humanity and increase awareness of the barriers to affordable housing, Buschman Homes has teamed with the Home Builders Association of Lake County and Habitat for Humanity to sponsor the "Chance of a Lifetime super Raffle," in which the grand prize winner will receive a brand new $285,000 home or $200,000 cash. The second prize is a new Jeep Wrangler from Liberty Auto Center or $15,000 in cash. In addition, there will be 12 weekly drawings for $500 cash. Tickets can be obtained by making a tax-deductible contribution of $100 to Habitat for Humanity Lake County, and with a maximum of 5,000 tickets available, the odds on winning one of the prizes are a favorable 357 to 1.

But it isn't just the winners of the raffle who benefit. The proceeds from the raffle will go to three charities: Habitat for Humanity, the Greater Chicago Housing Foundation and the Chrysalis Foundation, the philanthropic arm of the Builders Association that helps build housing for transitionally homeless people.

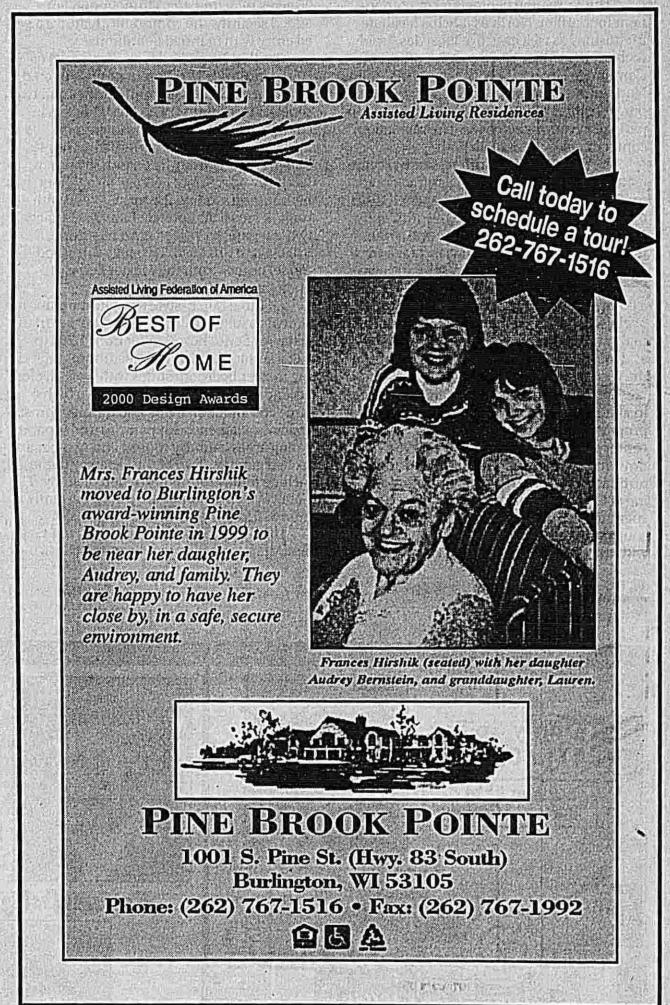

The funds Habitat for Humanity received will enable it to move forward with plans to house a family of six who are eager to move into a home that can accommodate them.

"The goal," says Buschman, "is to help explain why it's important to a community to have affordable housing. The emphasis is on helping people become aware of what Habitat and other housing foundations do."

To obtain tickets or additional information about the "Chance of a Lifetime Super Raffle," contact the Home Builders Association of Lake County by phone at 816-4663 or by fax at 816-4678. The raffle will continue through October 19, or until the maximum of 5,000 tickets have been sold.

This home, valued at$285,000, will be auctioned off for the opportunity to have a Waukegan family realize its dream of owning a house. The raffle, which has a Jeep Wrangler as a second prize, is sponsored to help raise awareness for two non profit agencies in Lake County.

Last chance to buy at the Fairway Homes of Antioch Golf Club

In only six months, Remington Homes has sold the majority of the maintenance-free townhomes at The Fairway Homes of Antioch Golf Club. Now, only six of the 24-ranch-style homes remain for sale at the north suburban community.

All townhomes at The Fairway Homes of Antioch Golf Club offer convenient single-level living, with 1,060 to 1,298 square feet, two bedrooms, two baths, attached garages, and central air conditioning. Buyers still may choose from four floor plans. Base prices range from $118,900 to $126,900.

"This is the final opportunity for buyers to purchase an affordable brand-new home overlooking the scenic fairways and greens of the Antioch Golf Club," said Jay Dulla, president of West Dundee-based Remington Homes. He added that with recent sales averaging five per month, the community should be sold out within 45 days. To allow for quick move-in, the townhomes are ready for immediate delivery.

e delivery. "Ever since the weather warmed up and people have had the chance to come out and see the beauty of the site, sales have taken off," he continued. He explained that the property on which the Fairway Homes of Antioch Golf Club sits is filled with natural amenities, including hundreds of mature trees that line the well-manicured course. And although Remington's townhomes are new construction, they are nestled among existing homes, giving the neighborhood an established ambiance. In fact, Remington's Fairway Homes are the final phase of a larger community.

Sales for the Fairway Homes are being conducted from a sales center at the Antioch Golf Club. To reach the site, take Ill. Hwy. 12 to Ill. Hwy. 59 north, continue approximately five miles past Grand Ave. (Ill. Hwy. 132) to the community's entrance on the west side of the road. Or, take Interstate 94 to Ill. Hwy. 173, go west to Ill. Hwy. 59 and turn south. Continue south on Ill. Hwy. 59 one-quarter mile past Grass Lake Road to the community.

How to Escape from the "Golden Handcuffs" By Scott T. Fleischmann

Shortly after starting my first management assignment, I made and nteresting discovery. Several of the people who reported to me seemed to be paid much more than their skills would justify.

On further investigation I found that the error was not only real but also intentional. My boss told me that he overpaid these people so that they wouldn't leave the company. He called it "The Golden Handcuffs' and tried to convince me that it was a valid management practice. Let me assure that that I have never bought into this theory. It is not honest, and it causes all sorts of problems. Not the least of these problems is that the people it is meant to retain in the company may not want to be in the company any longer but they are trapped and they know it Does this sound like a double-edged sword?

Recruiters are taught early in their career not to hire people for less than their current salary. The theory is that they will soon learn that the change in salary has a significant effect on their life style. Then he or she will start a new job search for more money.

So what can you do if you are in these "Golden Handucffs"? How can you discuss salary with future potential employers? If you wait until you are ready to look for a job the only option you have is to try to convince the recruiter that you will not bolt as soon as a higher paying job comes

However, these is an alternative if you see that you're in this position and you don't need to find a job immediately. I suggest first, that you find out what your skills are worth in the marketplace (See my articles from early June on how to discover your real value.) Armed with that information you should now deduct that amount from your current salary to get the difference. Then take the amount of the difference, minus taxes, and put it into a savings account every month.

If you take this approach, and have saved that amount for six months or more you can tell a recruiter that you realized that you were being overpaid and saved the extra to make sure that you could live on your

You know those overpaid people in my first management position. When the company had to do some budget tightening, all three of them were let go. These people had no idea that the layoff was coming. They found themselves in a position where they had to try to convince recruiters that they could live on a lower salary. Preparation could have made the difference between finding a job quickly and an extended job and President of Superior Personnel in Gurnee. Letters can be sent to Nancy Sakol c/o Lakeland Newspapers, P.O. Box 268, Grayslake, IL 60030

By Nancy Sakol I was writing to find out if you can help me find out the reason I was fired from my job with (name withheld). I had been working there for over 6 years and was terminated last week and no reason was given to me when I was let go. It was near the end of the day and I received a call from the Personnel office asking me to stop in there on my way out. I did. I walked in and was asked to sit down. I was immediately told by (name withheld) that would be my last day. I was handed my final paycheck as I was told I would then be escorted to my desk to clean out my belongings. I was totally dumfounded as I cleaned out my desk with a security guard at my side. I was then escorted to the door and left. I still don't know why I was let go. I called the Personnel Manager the next morning, but I have not received a call back. I feel that I am owed an explanation.

Could you possibly help? Thank you. E.K. (via e-mail)

We got right on it for you. In speaking with the Manager of Personnel for your former employer, I was told that this termination had taken place within the past 72 hours, and 48 of those hours were a weekend whereby the company was closed over a weekend as usual. I was told that when the company brought you in to the personnel department and told you of your termination, you never asked for a reason. Instead I was told that your reaction was a "tirade" witnessed by several employees. There was a point I am also told that your actions caused a couple of employees to feel threatened by your actions. Understanding of course that terminating employees is never an easy task for the terminated or the terminator. It was stated that you had never asked the reason why you were being terminated, but rather immediately started raising your voice among other things, I was told. The company has informed me they will be sending you a certified letter, shortly. Just a word of advise. When an employee is terminated for what ever reason, it is important to leave like a professional. The way you respond and the actions you take at that point will follow you... guaranteed! You never know when you will need the company for a reference on former employment. Also take into consideration that it may be that a company is terminating the position that you were in, however, there may be another opportunity within the company that you may miss out on by showing a bad side. In your case, it was told to me that you never gave the company a chance to tell you what was going on. You reacted adversely, not professionally. When the letter is received, may I make the suggestion that you think before you react. Good Luck.

n a small room, three females sit talking—one teenager, a 20-year-old and the group leader, in her 30s. A toddler plays with some toys, making loud cries of joy, just to hear herself speak. Looking at the group, one might think the baby belongs to the group leader. However, this meeting is a support group for teenage mothers, and the toddler belongs to one

Tri-County Pregnancy & Parenting Services has a new location in Lake County, on Atkinson Rd. in Grayslake. The center offers many services to families and schools in the county. Dawn Tanis, director of student services, leads the Tuesday night meeting of teenage moms. The evenings begin with the group sharing a meal together as a family. "It's really a bonding time," she noted.

Claudia Moreno, 17, is the mother of the toddler, 11-month-old Alexis. She described what the girls do at the meetings. "We talk about what we need help on, and what she (Tanis) can do to help us. And just hear all the other girls, what they have to say, what they're going through. And we ask them for advice, and we also give them our advice too. We can talk about all the problems that we have and goals that we can set or keep," she explained.

Tanis said the group hosts different speakers on life skills, such as anger management, communication, resumes and business attire. But the moms appreciate the support. "I get to talk to people the same age as me, and I know that they're going through what I'm going through, so I don't feel that left out. And they understand me more," Moreno shared. "They're like my family too, I guess you can say."

Dawn Smith (using an assumed name) 20, attends for emotional support. "I come here because I need somebody to talk to," she said.

Tanis apparently plays a major role in the girls' lives. Smith continued, "I'm so excited to see Dawn because it's somebody who's actually interested in me and wants to hear, like, how we feel." Moreno commented, "She's not only our counselor, she's our best friend. She's like part of our family too."

Moreno is a senior at Round Lake High School and plans to graduate early. She also works part-time to make ends meet. While she would love to be able to stay home and be with her child, the father is not involved so she has found herself a single mother. She hopes to take courses at the College of Lake County after high school so she can become a labor and delivery nurse, a career choice that was somewhat influenced by the birth of Alexis.

Hwy, 132 Between Rt. 45 & Rt. 83

"I think education is like the major thing in life that you can do best for you and your child, because without education you're not gonna get anywhere," she said. Alexis is her motivating factor. "She encourages me more to, like, stay in school, study well, you know, to stay out of trouble.'

Tri-County offers limited day care scholarships for teenage mothers, like Moreno, so they can stay in school. Tanis explained the stipulations of the scholarship are that the girl is attending and passing her classes. "Without the childcare assistance, it would be really difficult for her (Moreno) to complete high school," Tanis said.

Another thing the support group provides is a quarterly "Moms' Day Out" event. The girls have gone camping, bowling and to the petting zoo at Lamb's Farm. "I loved camping," Moreno gushed. "I'd never been camping before in my life.

Forget the diamonds, dear—let's go on Oprah!

have noticed an alarming trend in America. In some circles, it is no longer considered "cool" to admit you are an Oprah fan.

Pshaw! Where does this cynicism start? Maybe this trend began back when Oprah was at the height of media attention. She had just produced a movie, she was on the cover of Vogue magazine, her show had a new direction and...maybe this is the key...she even sang the theme song for her own show.

Fine, I'll admit that last part may have been a little much. But have you ever been to a karaoke bar? In just one visit, you'll discover that there are plenty of other people out there who fantasize that they can sing, too. Many with voices much worse than Oprah's. People who step up to a karaoke mike and belt out a song with the confidence of Frank Sinatra, despite emitting tones commonly made by nails scratching on blackboard.

And karaoke audiences being what they are, meaning we applaud simply out of polite acknowledgement that it takes a lot of guts to get up there and sing THAT bad, these folks are given false hope. Next thing you know, the guy who sings like your cat when you step on it's tail thinks he's a karaoke king, and starts showing up every week at the karaoke bar to give his "audience" what he thinks they want - him!

LIFE'S A BEAR

So, c'mon, if we can't even manage to tell the truth to these "little people", then why should we have expected anyone to tell Oprah that no matter how many times Tina Turner or Whitney Houston are guests on her show, "it just don't rub off, honey!" She may be famous and powerful, but she's still human.

And that's one of the reasons I like her, cool or not. Of course, maybe that theme song mistake is not the problem. It could be that men are the source of this creeping negativism about Oprah. I don't know a single man who admits to even watching her. Most men would rather admit to watching Howard Stern: "Yo, bud, did you see the babe who stripped for Howard last week? Woo hoo!"

Unlike Howard (for whom the word "topic" might be a stretch), Oprah focuses her topics on empowering women and encouraging them to bring about changes to make the most of their lives. This can make

First of all, some men picture Oprah as the Pied Piper and her audience as a bunch of female lemmings, prone to chanting, "Yes, we will write in our journals, oh great Oprah!"

Personally, I resent that sort of thinking. Just because I keep a journal and own several books with an "Oprah Book Club" sticker does not mean anything. It's purely coincidence.

Second, I think that some men are afraid that if we do, indeed, change our lives, we might expect the same from THEM. We may want to know how they FEEL instead of what they want for dinner. We might want them to share the remote. Perhaps most frightening of all, we might want them to appear with us on Oprah.

But I am not married to a man like that. My husband knows that I have my own mind, strange though it might be. And he is even willing, sometimes, to try to make changes in our lives, unless they involve his wardrobe. And, best of all, while I have always been fairly certain that my husband loves me, now I have definite confirmation.

Why? Because he is making the ultimate sacrifice that a man can make on his wife's behalf- he has agreed to appear with me and our daughter on Oprah on October 4th.

Is he happy about it? Well...not exactly. But it's not like he had no choice:

Me: Listen, honey, if you had the choice between a proctologist visit or appearing on Oprah, which would you choose?

Him: I'd choose Oprah.

Me: That's great because, guess what, honey? You got your choice! We're going on Besides, my husband knows it's not really my fault. All I did was send an e-mail to the Oprah show related to an upcoming show on parenting issues.

The fact that they actually called me was totally beyond my control. As for our daughter, she has only one concern about the whole Oprah thing: "Are they picking us up in a STRETCH limo?!?" And me? I'm just trying to keep everyone calm: "Remember, family...it's only a TV show.

It's only a TV show...it's...OPRAH! WE'RE GOING ON OPRAH! THIS IS SO COOL! WOO HOO!"

I'd never been on a horse.'

Tanis said the girls went kayaking and backpacking up at Camp Timber-Lee in Wisconsin. In the wilderness for the weekend without their diaper bags and strollers, Tanis recalls one girl saying, "Look, we look like real teenagers!"

The feeling that she's somehow missing out on high school life was something Moreno mentioned. She had wanted to get involved in sports, but that is difficult, especially since she is graduating early. She hopes to be able to attend homecoming events. "I regret the age (at which I had a child) and probably not waiting, like not getting to know her dad-but I don't regret her," she said thoughtfully as Alexis played alongside her.

What advice would she give to teenagers considering sex? "If that's what their heart tells them to do, then fine. But otherwise, don't do it at all, because it's not an easy thing (being a teen mom)," said Moreno. "You really need a lot of support being a teen mom, especially when you're by yourself and you're not with the guy.

Smith believes teens should wait to have sex until they are married. "I think that if you're gonna start having sex, make sure that's the serious guy in your life," she said.

She is now married and has a 1-year-old son. Her future plans are to get her GED and become a pediatrics nurse, but she does feel overwhelmed at times. "I'm young, only 20, I'm married, I have a kid, we all live together. I work; I'm trying to save up for school. It's like—my life is over, that's it, you know."

Both seem to have learned a lot through the experience of becoming a mother, such as perspective. "She may be a pain sometimes, but you know, what can you do? I betcha I was a pain when I was little, too, you know?" said Moreno. "I think that when Alexis gets older, I'm gonna talk to her about these things. Not only do I want to be her mom, but I want to be her friend too."

Tri-County services people from all around Lake County. Tanis said, "The schools have been phenomenal," noting the center receives referrals from counselors at area schools. "It's a population that sometimes gets missed in the high school realm." Girls from Round Lake, Warren Township, Grant, Mundelein and Wauconda high schools have found assistance at Tri-County. There is also a branch of the center in Crystal Lake.

Volunteers can help in many capacities at the center, from counselors providing free pregnancy tests to mentors who get involved in the lives of teenage mothers on a deeper level. Other positions are available as well.

Tanis herself began as a volunteer for a different agency before going on staff at Tri-County. "I just felt like I wanted to do more," she explained of the career move. "I fell in love with these girls. They all have different stories, and you just want someone to care for them."

Center provides services for all women

By MICHELLE HABRYCH Staff Reporter

Tri-County Pregnancy & Parenting Services offers free assistance to many different groups of people. With a new office in Grayslake, the center is accessible by most in Lake County.

Pregnancy testing is offered for any woman or girl who finds herself possibly dealing with an unplanned pregnancy, whether she is married or single. Counselors at the center provide information on what happens to a woman's body during a pregnancy, and they also discuss all choices for dealing with the pregnancy, giving "honest information," said Dawn Tanis, director of student services for the center.

Currently, support groups areoffered for pregnant teens, their parents and teen moms. Tanis said she hopes to be starting a "boot camp" for teenage dads. Its purpose would be to encourage the parents to stay together or for the father to at least have a relationship with the child. The program would also focus on character development and baby skills.

Emotional needs can be met for those who have had an abortion through a counseling program offered at the center. Material needs can also be met through the generous donations of others. An entire room at Tri-County is filled with "everything a new mom could need." Cribs, strollers, diapers, breast pumps and more are piled in the room. Tanis said when a new mom is visited in the hospital she is given a gift. One grandmothers' group donated a bunch of gift-wrapped boxed for such use.

Tanis stressed that items are for use by any woman in need. She shared the example of a woman who had two children already and had gotten rid of all of her baby stuff. She then found herself pregnant at the same time her husband lost his job. Tri-County was able to help that family with some material needs.

Donations are accepted by the center. Local churches host showers for the momsto-be and women who are done raising their babies bring in used equipment. Volunteers are needed to assist in many capacities. "Some of them (pregnant women) just want someone to pray with them, to help them get through it," Tanis said.

Additionally, next door to Tri-County is Savin' Haven, a thrift shop which raises funds for the pregnancy and parenting center. Volunteers are needed to do various tasks there as well.

Historic 'Wild Geese' fly again

The Irish American Heritage Center, 4626 North Knox Ave, Chicago, proudly presents the "Wild Geese" as the topic for the 11th Annual Irish American Forum. The Forum is scheduled for Saturday, Oct. 7, from 9:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. The all-day program costs $5 and includes refreshments. For additional $10 you can join us for a delicious hot lunch that includes dessert. There will be several speakers highlighting different angles of the topic

From the fall of Limerick in 1691 to the French Revolution, an estimated 480,000 Irish soldiers fell in the field for France or otherwise died in her service. The brigade was kept recruited by military emigrants born in Ireland chiefly from the province of Munster. French smugglers referred to them under the romantic and significant title of "Wild Geese.

This was a poetic allusion to their eastward flight. The brigade, known for its outstanding courage, is best remembered by the name "Wild Geese."

Their service was not limited to France, and wherever they served, it was with courage and honor. There is a story told about how one general found minor fault with the regiment for some slight infraction of discipline and called King Louis' attention to the matter. King Louis replied, half jokingly, "My Irish troops cause me more uneasiness than all the rest of my armies!"

"Sir," replied Dillon, the head of the Irish regiment, "all your Majesty's enemies make precisely the same complaint."

You must think about others when it comes to making an important decision early in the week, Aries. You are not the only person who will be affected by the choice that you make. Remem-ber that. That special someone turns to you in a time of need. Do what you can for him or her, because you're the only person who can help.

Taurus – April 21/May 21
When you come up with a great idea to surprise a loved one this week, don't tell anyone. Someone is bound to spill the beans. Just keep it to yourself, and work diligently to make things happen. Your efforts definitely will be appreciated. A close friend needs a shoulder to cry on late in the week. Be there for him or her.

Gemini - May 22/June 21
You know exactly what you have to do when it comes to a personal decision this week, Gemini. So, don't let a loved one try to change your mind. Stand your ground, and do what you think is best. The person whom you've been seeing wants to intensify your relationship. Don't automatically say yes; think about what you want.

Cancer – June 22/July 22
That special someone tells you something in confidence on Tuesday. While you don't know exactly what to say, try to be supportive. That is what he or she needs right now. Virgo – Aug 24/Sept 22
There is a lot to be done this week, Virgo. Staying organized and on top of things is the only way to make progress. Don't let a loved one's minor problems distract you from the tasks at hand. An acquaintance asks for your advice about a personal problem. Be honest with him

Libra - Sept 23/Oct 23

Don't feel sorry for yourself when you encounter an obstacle while trying to attain a personal goal early in the week. This is just a minor setback. If you stay focused and work diligently, you're sure to accomplish everything. Aries plays a key role.

Scorplo – Oct 24/Nov 22 When a family problem arises late in the week, try to think of others instead of yourself. You surely can handle this, but not everyone in-volved can. Be strong for them, and help every-one get through this. Your efforts will be appre-ciated and rewarded. Leo figures prominently.

Sagittarius – Nov 23/Dec 21 Try not to get upset when a close friend gets you involved in a difficult situation on Thursday. He or she doesn't mean to cause you any trouble. Realize this, and try to stay calm. You'll need a cool head on your shoulders to straighten out the matter. It may take a few days, but everything will work out.

Capricorn - Dec 22/Jan 20 You get the opportunity to make your mark at work this week, Capricorn. The higher-ups put you in charge of an important project. Show them exactly what you can do. Your efforts will be recognized. The person whom you've been seeing calls it quits. Try to realize that he or she isn't the one for you.

Aquarius – Jan 21/Feb 18
Be frugal when you receive an unexpected windfall late in the week, Aquarius. There are a lot of things that you'd like to get. However, there are several things that you really need. Get your priorities in order before you start to spend. Turn to a loved one for advice if you need it.

Pisces - Feb 19/March 20

While you would like to help a co-worker who gets into trouble, don't. There is more going on here than you realize. Getting involved only will make the higher-ups suspicious of you. Libra is

movie review

ter is based on Crowe, who began writing for "Rolling Stone" magazine at age 15.

After approaching Lester Bangs (Philip Seymour Hoffman), the publisher of "Creem" magazine, William gets his start in rock journalism, and is sent to cover a Black Sabbath concert.

The editor from "Rolling Stone" soon catches wind of William's work, and signs him on to follow Stillwater, an up-and-coming band William met at the Black Sabbath show. This proves to be harder than it sounds, as Russell Hammond (Billy Crudup), the lead guitar player, continually evades William's attempts to interview him.

As he pursues his interview with the band, William also falls in love with Penny Lane (Kate Hudson), a self-glorified groupie who is on the road with Stillwater. Penny is locked up in a relationship with Russell, keeping William from expressing his true feelings.

As the conflicts play themselves out, Crowe gives us a glimpse of the un-real reality of the music business.

The rock stars lead lives that seem to be free of the social morals that dictate the "real" world. But at the same time, the members of Stillwater are still under the pressures of the business world. Though they seem to live free, there is always the need to sell records and be financially successful.

As William and Russell's relationship builds under the umbrella of this dichotomy, and the audience is never quite sure if Russell is be-friending the innocent writer to take advantage of him or because he truly likes him. The same goes for the relationship between the relationship between Russell and Penny.

The movie also takes on William's relationship with his mother, played by Frances McDormand. From the start, she is an over-protective parent. Though she lets William pursue his dream, she is always on the telephone masking sure he is not getting into trouble.

Though she seems like a nag, the loving relationship between mother and son is shines though in William's respect for her.

Though the main characters in this movie are played wonderfully, the real surprise comes from the supporting actors. Hoffman's cynical mentor figure and Jason Lee's bumbling portrayal of Stillwater's front-man are played perfectly.

But the biggest reason I liked this movie was the simple fact that it was fun to watch. For two hours, it is 1973 and you are on a bus going across the country. It will make you want to become a music journalist. I give "Almost Famous" three and a half popcorn boxes.

The Cell

Visually, "The Cell" is completely engulfing. There are scenes in the film that no movie-goer will soon forget. From expansive shots of star Jennifer Lopez walking across the crest of a sand dune in the middle of a vast desert, to the haunting landscapes and costumes of serial killer Carl Stargher's (Vincent D'Onofrio) subconscious, the visuals in "The Cell" are hard to match. However, the movie's predictable, even boring, story line does not live up to the visuals.

This story line is nothing more than a science fiction remake of "The Silence Of The Lambs." The movie moves along its predictable path until its conclusion, which is blatantly foreshadowed in one of the

Duets

"Duets" ties together six lives three "duets." Each of these couples are thrown together by circumstance rather than choice. The thread that ties them together is a $5,000 grand prize Karaoke contest in Omaha, Nebraska.

As promising as these intertwining tales might seem, they fall flat. Not having the time or space to fully develop six characters, the writer and director give us only the first eight bars of their lives, and then wrap it up as quickly and glibly as a late-night TV ad for a "best of" music collection. ## Early Intervention Programs help children thrive

FOR YOUR HEALTH

By Leslie Piotrowski, M.S. Communications Manager, Lake County Health Department Community Health Center

No two children are exactly alike. Each has his or her unique ways of learning and growing. Most differences are nothing to worry about, but for some, a difference can signal a special need.

If something about your child seems unusual or worrisome, it's important to address your concerns as soon as possible. Parents and those who are closest to a child are often the first to notice warning signs of a potential delay or disability. These signs don't necessarily mean that there are problems. However, if you're concerned about your child there are steps you can take:

 Observe how your child is developing compared to children of the same age.

 Obtain a free screening through your local school district or Child & Family Connections.

Child & Family Connections, which is part of the Lake County Health Department/Community Health Center, serves children from birth to 3 years of Lake County Health Department offers services for families with concerns age with disabilities or developmental delays. As part of a statewide, familycentered service system, it connects families to developmental evaluation and assessment at no cost. The organization also links families of eligible children to a statewide network of service providers.

Early intervention services include, but are not limited to, physical therapy, occupational therapy, speech/language therapy, nutrition services, psychological services and social work services. There are more than 100 early intervention programs as well as independent service providers delivering early intervention services to families in Lake County.

Children eligible for early intervention services must be experiencing developmental delays in one or more of the following areas: cognitive development; physical development, including vision and hearing; language and speech development; psycho-social development; and self-help skills. Eligible children may also have diagnosed physical or mental conditions such as Cerebral Palsy or Down's Syndrome.

Children can make substantial strides through early intervention services provided during the first three years of life. These services are geared to:

Encourage and support development Prevent diagnosed conditions from at (847) 360-7353.

The earlier a delay or disability is identified, the better the chance that early intervention services can help a child reach his or her potential. For more information, or if you have concerns about your child's development, contact the Lake County Health Department/Community Health Center

Fall offers lots of ways to stay in shape

he most beautiful month of the year -October! Temperatures are ideal for outdoor family activities including the fall favorite apple picking. Pack up the kids, load up the car, and make a day of it.

Many of the orchards offer much more than just apple picking; hayrides, picking pumpkins, music, Halloween activities are also featured. Set some time aside during your busy autumn schedule to get out and enjoy the day (and your family) before the north winds begin to blow! Here is a sampling of the areas many apple orchards

Edwards Orchard in Poplar Grove is a bit of a drive but well worth the trip. Located 15 miles east of Rockford, Edwards is sure to offer something for every member of the family. Upon arriving you'll have to decide which attraction to enjoy first. Will it be the pet barn? Every fall there are new additions to meet - piglets, geese, calves, lambs, and puppies to name a few. The youngest members of your family will surely enjoy the up close look.

Or, will it be the farm museum? The museum is crammed with interesting artifacts that depict the early days of farming. After viewing the "modern conveniences" of that bygone era it makes you truly appreciate our current electronic appliances and tools!

Or will it be the tantalizing scent of apple pie and cider doughnuts that draws you to the Apple Cellar snack bar for a treat or cup of fresh cider?

Or, will you jump on the back of a tractorpulled wagon for a ride out to the orchards to pick apples? After all that is why you're there! Large wagons, capable of holding dozens of apple-pickers, are driven out to the orchards at regular intervals. The wellorganized and friendly Edwards employees (mostly family members) direct you to their abundant crop with reminders on the proper way to pick apples.

After you pick your share of apples you can hitch a ride on the wagon back to the farm where you'll be faced with that same dilemma - what to do next? Some of the other activities available at Edwards Orchard include: pick-your-own pumpkins, pony rides, children's play area, Bluegrass bands, and an extensive gift shop. Nine apple varieties are available through Thanksgiving weekend from 9 am - 6 pm daily (the Apple Barn gift shop is open 9 am - 5 pm from Nov. 1 through Thanksgiving weekend.) Edwards does supply bushel baskets for picking or you can bring your own. Apples are also available for purchase in the Apple Barn along with other autumn treats - squash, caramel apples, pies, doughnuts, pumpkins, and hardy mums. Call 815.765.2234 for additional information, pricing, and directions.

Another family oriented orchard is located just over the Wisconsin border.

Apple Holler, which is only 20 minutes north of Gurnee Mills on the west side of I-94 in Racine County, offers many attractions for active families. With more than 10,000 trees apple, and pear, picking is available until it snows!

Apple Holler is more than just apples. Kids will enjoy the child's play area including the Kid's Corral as well as pony rides and hay rides on weekends. Also featured is a build your own caramel apple station! Another special feature at Apple Holler is the hay ride - picnic package. Available by reservation for groups of 20 or more, your gang will enjoy a hay ride out to the 5 acres of picnic woods where you will be treated to a bonfire and hot apple cider. If you'd like, you can bring your own marshmallows and hot dogs for toasting. Apple Holler is also happy to cater your event offering everything from hot dogs and bratwursts to pig roasts! No one in your group plays guitar? That's OK! Apple Holler can supply a singer-guitarist for your campfire sing-a-longs (for an additional fee of course!)

All of this including pick your own pumpkins and a full service restaurant are available. Apple picking is open from 9 am - 6 pm everyday. The restaurant is open from 7:30 am - 8 pm - ask about their musical theatre dinner packages! Call 800.238.3629 for additional information, prices, and directions.

Quig's Orchards in Mundelein is also family friendly; the ideal spot for a morning, or afternoon, family trip. Along with apple picking you can enjoy hay rides, a daytime haunted barn (the ghosts are asleep - perfect

Halloween Safety Tips

Halloween is an exciting, fun-filled time for young people. Unfortunately, it can also be a time when accidents happen and for criminal activity. Follow the safety tips below so that parents, children and drivers, can help make Halloween safe for all.

- Welcome trick-or-treaters with your porch lights and any exterior lights on.
- Patrol your street occasionally to discourage speeding motorists, acts of malicious mischief and crimes against children.
- Report any suspicious or criminal activity to your police department immediately. In many areas you can call 9-1-1
- Candlelit jack-o-lanterns should be kept clear of doorsteps and landings.
  Consider the possibility of using flashlights instead of candles to light jack-o-lanterns.
  Keep dogs and other pets away from doors so children will not become frightened.

- Exercise extreme caution when driving a vehicle. Be on the alert for excited
- youngsters, whose vision may be obscured by masks, darting out into traffic. Motorists should avoid all unnecessary travel on Halloween evening, and when driving they should drive slowly and be alert to small children crossing streets. Many accidents occur when motorists are backing vehicles out of driveways, unaware of the presence of small children.

PARENTS - TELL TRICK-OR-TREATERS:

- Be back home at .... XX:00 p.m. (Set a time limit for your children to "trick-or-treat." Also designate a specific route for them to take.)
- Never trick-or-treat alone. Go with at least two friends for the entire evening. Carry a flashlight and use it so drivers can see you and you can see hazards in the
- street as well as other people. Cross only at street corners, never between parked cars, and never diagonally across an intersection.
- Look in all directions before crossing the street, and obey all traffic signals. Walk, never run, across the street, and use sidewalks, not the street, for walking.
- Do not accept rides from strangers.
- Do not take short cuts through backyards, alleys, or parks. Do not go inside anyone's home. Remain on the porch/front door stoop at all times.

- Tell children not to eat treats until parents have inspected them.
- Do not give homemade or unwrapped treats to children.
- Discard any homemade or unwrapped treats.
  Fruit should be sliced into small pieces and checked for foreign objects.

COSTUMES - A note to parents:

- Make sure your children's costumes are not flammable.
- Do not permit your children to use cumbersome, floor length or vision-impairing costumes.
- Reflectorized stripes make your costume more visible.
- In lieu of masks, face makeup is recommended. Wear comfortable, safe shoes.
- Call 9-1-1 if you suspect any tainted candy.

A simple exam can save lives

October is Breast Cancer Awareness Month

Breast Self Examination or BSE takes just a few minutes, and you only need to do it once a month. This simple exam is a woman's first defense in fighting breast cancer. Women over the age of 40 should also have a mammogram yearly.

Here's some basic tips for conducting this self-exam.

If you are menstruating, perform BSE 7 to 10 days after the first day of your period, when your breasts are least tender. If you no longer menstruate, choose the same day each month-to remind your self to do BSE.

As you do your examination, keep in mind that your goal is to become acquainted with how your breasts normally LOOK and FEEL. Your knowledge of your breast texture and appearance will increase the more you perform BSE. This knowledge will help you identify a change more quickly and report it to your doctor. Some of the changes you should watch for include:

A lump or thickening in or near the breast or underarm area. A change in the size or shape of the breast. A puckering, dimpling, or redness of the breast skin. Remember, a change you see or feel in your breast does not automatically mean you have breast cancer. But it is best to report any change to your health care provider for further evaluation.

LOOKING

1. Use a mirror.

First, stand in front of a mirror, keeping your arms relaxed at your sides. Notice the shape and size of your breasts. Compare both breasts. It is not unusual for one to be larger than the other. Next, look at your skin. Take note of the texture and color. Changes in shape and size occur. Hands on hips. Look at the same things with your arms in different positions.

FEELING

As you do this part of the examination remember that some lumpiness is normal for many women. Self-examination helps you become familiar with the normal texture of your breast tissue.

2. To examine your right breast; lie on your back.

Place a pillow or a folded towel under your right shoulder. Put your right arm out, with your elbow at a 90 degree angle. This position flattens the breast and makes it easier to examine. Notice the area within the dotted line. This is the area you need to examine. Pay extra attention to the shaded area. This is where most of your breast tissue is.

Use the padded area of your fingers- not the tips.

Use the pads of three or four fingers of your left had to examine your right breast. Move your fingers in very small circles.

For each small circle, change the amount of pressure so you can feel all levels of your breast tissue. Don't lift your fingers from your breast as you move them - you might miss something that way. Some women use lotion to make it easier for their fingers to slide over their skin.

4. Make a pattern of vertical strips.

Cover the self-exam area in vertical strips. Start in your armpit and move down to just below your breast. Now move your fingers over - just the width of one finger- and move up again. Continue this up-and-down pattern until you have covered the entire self-exam area, from your collarbone to just below your breast.

5. Relax your arm and examine your armpit.

Some parts of your breast go up into your armpit. Examine this area again, with your arm relaxed at your side. It will feel a little different in this position.

6. Check for fluid coming from your nipple.

Clear or milky fluid coming from the nipple is more common than bloody fluid.All nipple discharge should be checked by your health care provider.

- 7. Repeat steps 2-6 using your right hand to examine your left breast.
- 8. Some women find it helpful to repeat the above examination steps while in the shower or bath.

What to do if you find a lump:

Do not panic! Eighty percent of lumps found are not cancerous. See your health care provider. If you are still worried or if you do not have a health care provider, contact Y-ME. A counselor will refer you to an approved medical facility in your area.

Remember: Breast cancer can develop at any age, but your risk increases as you grow older. Your chances of developing breast cancer are twice as great at age 70 as they were at age 50.

More than 70 percent of all women with breast cancer have no risk factors, including family history. Early diagnosis of breast cancer means better chances of survival. Mammography is a safe and effective screening tool, finding most breast cancers before they can be felt. But it is important to be examined regularly by your health care provider.

SHAOLIN KUNG FU

This physical martial art system is exceptional to other hard style systems because of the soft and powerful internal qualities it has inherited from the fighting monk systems of China. If you like hard physical training you will enjoy this system.

KIDS KUNG FU

I will be teaching a form of kung fu known as TAN TUL pronounced [tan-tu-e] a system of building body strength, mind discipline, and martial art skill. This system was developed over 2000 years ago by chinese monks. It is the basic foundation of every martial art system known today. This learning will be done in a disciplined and attention focused atmosphere, so children will learn adult skills, while still retaining the fun and enjoyment of childhood. It will be a perfect balance of learning, fun & health.

Pumpkin Fun for Kids . . .

Find the pumpkin you and your family want to carve and gather tape, scissors, a Pumpkin Masters Kid's Fright Light kit that contains patterns, light pegs, mallet and a fun flashing light.

Scrape and clean out the pumpkin. If you save the seeds you can turn them into a tasty treat by putting them on a lightly buttered cookie sheet with salt and roast at 350 degrees for 30 minutes.

Tape the pattern you wish to carve onto the pumpkin . Transfer the design you want to use onto the pumpkin by using a light peg, pencil or pen. Poke a hole in the pumpkin at each dot on your pattern 🧩 or along the lines of the design. Remove the pattern when you are done.

Pound a peg in each design hole with a mallet. Light your creation by inserting a 9-volt battery into the flashing light and placing inside the pumpkin.

Light pegs can be removed and reused by gripping with pliers and gently twisting them out. Draw a pattern on paper and create your own masterplece!

If your child has problems learning in school, a screening may find the cause

Your child may have 20/20 eyesight but 0/0 vision - the difference is critical.

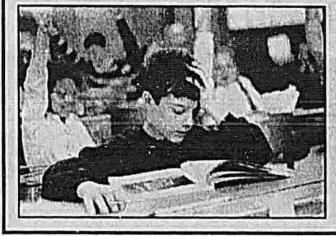

Eyesight is merely the basic ability to see; vision is the ability to identify, interpret, comprehend, and act on what is seen.

Routine vision test performed by school personnel or by most eye care professionals measure eyesight. They do not include the kinds of testing that can find visually related learning problems.

COULD YOUR CHILD BE AT RISK?

Our visual processing therapy program can diagnose and successfully treat vision probtems that are often reflected in the following behaviors:

- Unable to sit still; cannot stay on task for any length of time.
- 2. Very clumsy; poor eye-hand coordination.
- Does written work very slowly, often fails to complete a task.
- 4. Has difficulty copying visual material.
- Moves entire head instead of just eyes when reading.
- Reversals for example: confusing the words "was" and "saw" or letters "b" and "d".

- 7. Is disorganized and frustrated when studying visual information.
- 8. Makes frequent, "careless" errors.

If your son or daughter, age six to 16 has one or more of these behaviors, call 847-362-9900 today to schedule a screening for vision-related learning problems. It could be the most important phone call you will make during his or her school years.

THE SCREENING INCLUDES AN EVALUATION OF:

Visual Memory: The ability to store and retrieve visual information.

Concentration: The ability to maintain a visual task without distractions.

Reversal Frequency:

Confusing letters (b,d,p,q).

Visual Integration: The ability to combine visual input with other sensory or past inputs.

Motor Speed and Precision: Eye-hand coordination.

Acuity Defects: Near-sightedness, far-sightedness and astigmatism.

Eye Teaming/Focusing Skills: The ability to maintain clear and single vision at distance and near for prolonged periods of time without discomfort or abnormal effort.

Visualization: Ability to develop a mental picture - closely related to comprehension.

Visual Style: The evaluation of how a person performs a visual task in terms of accuracy, speed, and energy used.

THE SCREENING CONSISTS OF 14 DIFFERENT TESTS AND TAKES APPROXIMATELY ONE HOUR. 41% of students in the lower third of a normal class and 68% of students in special education programs have vision problems that can be corrected. Could your child be among them? Call us at 847-362-9900 to schedule your screening appointment.

WHAT IS OUR STRATEGY?

First we test and diagnose a child's visually related learning problems. If a visual handicap exists, a vision therapy program will be developed to meet the child's special needs. Once enrolled in our intensive visual processing program, a child will work on specific goals. A professional vision therapist will conduct carefully sequenced activities to strengthen weak areas in order to bring the "vision system" up to par. The time span for therapy is designed to allow each child to achieve maximum results.

WILL INSURANCE COVER THE COST? Here is a comforting thought. Our program may be covered by your major medical insurance policy.

THE TIME TO ACT IS NOW!

If your child is between the ages of six and 16, call us today at 847-362-9900 to set up an appointment for a screening. Any unexplained learning problem is a potential vision-related learning problem. When diagnosed early, visual processing therapy can significantly improve and often alleviate the problem entirely.

The comprehensive screening is available. Can you afford to pass up this possible explanation for your child's baffling lack of success in school? Call 847-362-9900 today.

WHAT PARENTS HAVE TO SAY ABOUT VISION THERAPY PROGRAM . . .

"I can highly recommend anyone with any questions about their child's performance, after going through the program successfully with two of my children."

E. Teennessen

"Personality has changed in that Melissa seems to be much more forward in her relationships with other people. Her school has also improved significantly."

J. Zeman

Next Screening Date: Wednesday, October 4th & Wednesday, October 18th

The daily training included exposure to and practical experience with detecting explosives in selected locations such as airports, schools, buses, aircraft and trains. In order to receive ATF certification Comet was required to identify, with 100 percent accuracy, no less than 20 types of explosive compounds including ammonia nitrate, TNT, dynamite, black powder, firearms and fireworks.

Del Re anticipates that the EDCT-will be used primarily for bomb threat calls involving the need to conduct a bomb search, and for search warrants where firearms, explosive booby traps or other such explosive devices may be encountered.

Illinois Law Enforcement Training and Standards Board, a total of 264 bombing incidents occurred in Illinois in 1996. These figures rank Illinois second only to California which had 496 incidents.

Del Re noted that the team will be used for periodic checks of the county's main court house in Waukegan and all branch courts countywide. In addition, Comet and Gabes will be available to all law enforcement agencies throughout Lake County.

With the rise in school violence, Del Re sees the team as a valuable resource for schools in Lake County and the surrounding area. Since the team's graduation from the AFT training facility, the Sheriff's Office has already responded to two Chicago area schools in reference to bomb threats.

"Comet will be extremely valuable in an ongoing effort to keep our children and schools safe," commented Del Re.

The EDCT will be on call 24 hours, seven days a week. Gabes said he and Comet are also on call nationwide if the need arises for security reinforcement on a larger scale. They are already scheduled to assist with security at the Winter Olympics to be held in Salt Lake City, Utah later this year.

Comet lives with Gabes and Solo, a patrol German shepherd for the Sheriff's Office. Comet is in continuous training eight hours per day, Monday through Friday and four hours per day on the weekends. She will follow that schedule for the rest of her detective career which Gabes estimated to be about eight years.

"This doesn't make for a great social life," quipped Gabes.

However, Comet's ability to sniff out a planted firearm on a media member during the press conference spoke largely of her successful training and her immense value to the Sheriff's Office.

What Are My Skills Worth?

Whether you are looking for a new job or just want to maximize your value in your current job, you may want to identify what your skills are worth. But where can you go to find the value of your skills? This can be a difficult question since most of us have many skills, and can do various jobs. Skill Identification

As you may have guessed, the first step in the process is to identify all of the skills that you have. Even if you have already decided that you are going to work in a given field, it is a good idea to identify all of your skills. A lawyer who worked his way through law school as a security guard, understands basic security techniques that could be an advantage in the law practice. A carpenter who has done some electrical work at home is more valuable because of the electrical knowledge, etc.

The most common mistake people make in this area, is to leave what are called "soft skills" off of the list. These are skills that support your work but are not necessarily required for your job. There are many recruiters and managers who believe that the soft skills are even more important than the primary skills. Soft skills can include:

Written communications Oral communications Listening skills Negotiating skills

Building relationships Familiarity with common software Entrepreneurial experience Management experience

Although all of these can be soft skills, written communications is not a soft skill for someone who is hired to write for the company newspaper. Management experience is not a soft skill for someone in a management position. However, someone with management experience who is in a non-management position is more valuable because he or she can empathize with the manager.

When listing the skills, also list: a proficiency level (I use a 1-10- scale) how many years of experience you have had with that skill, and the last time the skill was used. This is not as easy for the soft skills, but is very useful in later steps. For example, if you have negotiating as a skill and you bought a car six months that may be the last time the skill was used. Next week we will look at the final steps in the skill valuation process.

How To Survive The Job Search

By Nancy Sakol

Q:I have read your column for quite a few years and have picked up quite a few tips along the way. Although I spent 9 years with the same employer, I have been recently involved in a corporate downsizing that will leave myself and 4 others without jobs at the end of June. I haven't had to look for a job in a very long time and don't know where to begin. I work in the customer service department which involves the operation of a computer for entering data, but a friend of mine who is a total computer whiz suggested that entering data is not enough to help me get another job at the same salary range. In order for me to stay at the same pay level I am at, she said, that I must have stronger computer skills like for spreadsheets and word processing. I am hoping that you can give me a suggestion as to what I should learn, and where I should go to learn it, in order to stay on top of what I should learn, and where I should go to learn it, in order to stay on top of what corporations are looking for. Please respond as time is running out. R. G. - Lake Villa Dear Search,

A: Corporate downsizing most often sneaks up and leaves many people faced with the same dilemma and questions regarding their need to update their skills. This is most often an issue when an individual has been in the same position with a company for a long period of time. The main concern for you may be the ability to, at minimum, stay at the same pay level you have been accustomed to. Without knowing what your current salary is at, it is important to keep in mind that there is always the possibility that after staying in a position for so many years, that your salary may be over market for what it is you do. Quite often I see corporations applauding the work of their employees with annual raises, merit increases, incentives and bonuses, that the recipients of these, until faced with the situation of having to seek other employment, do not realize, that while they had a good thing going, things are not necessarily the same all over. What should you do now ... First, face reality and decide monetarily, what it is you are willing to truly settle for in order to get out there and prove yourself to a new employer. Get your resume together. I would also suggest that you choose an employment service such as Superior Personnel. We can provide you the opportunity to meet with select corporations that we feel would be a match for you with the strong stability and knowledge you have in your field. Employers love stability. You will find that keeping a good attitude will be a healthy thing that will shine through at any interview. When it comes to learning more current software, I can tell you that Microsoft for word processing and Excel for spreadsheets are the biggies. If you are interested in programs available for you to learn give me a call. It is Just a suggestion, but your friend who is offering you her advice, may be able to also offer you her knowledge of software. Either way, a couple of hours spent with each software and you could be in full swing. Good Luck.

Send your inquiries to our new website www.superiorpersonnel.com Note: Nancy Sakol is a licensed personnel professional and President of Superior Personnel in Gurnee. Letters can be sent to Nancy Sakol, c/o Lakeland Newspapers, P.O. Box 268, Grayslake, 1L 60030
